Unnecessary, Says Union

Price Boosts Planned By Oil Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three oil companies said within hours of accepting a government-proposed strike settlement that the wage increases to labor will mean higher prices for petroleum products.

Labor leaders, who expect the British Columbia settlement to form the basis for industry-wide contracts, said any increase would be unwarranted.

Imperial Oil Co., Home Oil Co., and Shell Canada Ltd. made statements saying the wage increase would show up in costs to the consumer.

But J. R. Duncan, national director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (OCAW), said Thursday:

"There is absolutely no need for a price increase."

Mr. Duncan said labor costs form an extremely small fraction of the price of a gallon of gasoline, perhaps two or three cents.

Oil company spokesmen would not say when they expected the price increase to take place, but union sources said it was unlikely until current disputes throughout the industry are settled.

Take Place Regionally

An oil industry source said, 50 cents a gallon in some remote northern districts.

Mr. Duncan said he expected the B.C. settlement formula would be the basis for an industry-wide settlement. His union is still on strike on the Prairies, and at Clarkson, Ont.

The 500 oil workers on strike in B.C. were expected to be back at work when a new contract is signed, probably about the middle of next week.

In Saskatchewan, both the OCAW and the OCAW are almost

British Housewives Fighting for Bread

LONDON (AP) — Housewives fought each other in a rush on stores for bread as a bakers' strike Thursday threatened 20,000,000 Britons with a weekend bread famine.

Stocks were snapped up in bakery shops and other stores within minutes — even while attempts were made to impose rationing of one loaf to a customer.

The strike of 10,000 bakers, seeking a 30-per-cent wage increase to £15 (45s) a week, hit half of England, including London.

The Labor government months ago urged 3½ per cent as a pattern for pay increases in all industries in an attempt to prevent setting off a spiraling inflation. But an appeal to the bakers union to submit the dispute to arbitration was ignored.

Small independent bakeries still operated but their output could not come close to meeting the normal demand.

In a self-service store in Croydon, a suburb of London, a clerk said: "Some of the women behaved like animals. It disgusted me."

The union has announced its determination to stand pat. It was shutting down the big bakeries for 48 hours, bringing a halt to weekend supplies.

Colonist 500 Fund

Second Donation Given By VMD Employees

The season's first donors to the Colonist 500 Fund for the needy at Christmas have come through again. Employees of VMD followed up their handsome $400 gift with another $150 Thursday.

The 500 Fund at present is growing even faster than it did last year.

The fund to provide a cash Christmas bonus for the 500 most destitute families in Greater Victoria has already reached $1,670, or about $3.40 for each family.

When the fund was divided up last year, it provided $24 for each. And contributions are a little higher now than they were at this stage last year.

This is the ninth year of the fund.

The 500 families are chosen by the Christmas Bureau, an agency of the Community Chest. The cash is given with no strings attached and there are no administrative costs.

You can help by mailing or bringing your contribution to The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

New Quebec Readers Arouse Storm

Father, Mother Replace Jesus and God

QUEBEC (CP) — Charges of "agnosticism" and counter-accusations of "witchhunting" are all part of a Quebec province squabble touched off by the removal of religious references from first- and second-grade French Roman Catholic textbooks.

The revised editions of two primary school readers which appeared this year had all verbal or pictorial references to religion removed and replaced by lay equivalents.

This substitution in the Forest-Quinnet texts provoked Frederic Dorion, chief justice of the Quebec Superior Court, into lashing out against "a handful of agnostics who are trying to make our children forget everything having to do with religion and the existence of God."

Speaking last week at the opening of the assizes in Quebec City, Mr. Dorion said that in order to please this group "we have totally deformed the first- and second-year readers in the province's schools."

Paul Gerin-Lajolle, Quebec education minister, counter-attacked with the accusation that Mr. Justice Dorion was "witch-hunting."

The changes in the readers, "far from being the work of agnostics" are the modifications approved by the catechism committee "created by the Roman Catholic bishops themselves."

Examination of the old and revised texts shows that the greatest change is in the first-year reader. All illustrations of a religious nature have been replaced by non-religious scenes.

On the first page of the revised edition, a picture of the Christ child, John the Baptist and his lamb has been replaced by that of a child playing with blocks while an adult looks on.

Throughout the text the words Jesus, God, Mary and saints have disappeared and been replaced by father, mother, uncle, aunt and others.

The second lesson of the former edition contained this sentence: "Aline likes cats and she would have liked to receive one as a New Year's gift."

In the fourth lesson of the old edition a disobedient child cries: "I am well punished for my disobedience! My God, cure me, I will no longer be talkative, I promise you." In the new edition this becomes: "I am punished for my disobedience! I will no longer be talkative."

Counsel Murray and client

Bennett and Accuser Meet Face to Face

By A. H. MURPHY

Bounding up the steps of the Victoria Law Courts building Thursday, Premier Bennett brushed past newsmen to appear at an examination for discovery in a slander suit brought against him by B.C.'s former chief purchasing agent.

Accompanied by counsel, George L. Murray of Vancouver, Mr. Bennett was conducted to the office of the Supreme Court registrar, Bernard Morahan, where he was sworn to tell the truth.

Mr. Bennett got out of his car and, at a fast walk, raced up the steps to the law court building, past photographers and in the door, where he entered the office of the registrar on the first floor.

With a fixed half-smile on his face, he first said, "No comment," and "No time now" to reporters but later, on his walk down the hallway, did consent to a few words on the strike settlement.

After the swearing-in, Mr. Bennett, accompanied by the registrar, who cautioned photographers against taking pictures in the Law Courts building, took the elevator to a room above where the examination took place in camera.

The writ against Mr. Bennett was launched on March 26 of this year. Statement of claim was filed later.

BA in Montreal Reaches Pact

MONTREAL (CP) — The British American Oil Co. says in a statement the independent bargaining organization at its Montreal East refinery has accepted a new two-year contract with the company.

Mr. Bennett said he expected the B.C. settlement formula would be the basis for an industry-wide settlement. His union is still on strike on the Prairies, and at Clarkson, Ont.

'Mr. Peterson,' Myself and Advisers'

Premier Bennett took full credit Thursday for his government in the settlement of the oil workers' strike.

Neither management nor labor had any part in fashioning the settlement formula for the 10-week dispute which, in its final phase, threatened to paralyze the economic life of the province.

Asked who composed the peace pact, Mr. Bennet said: "It was a combination of Mr. Peterson (provincial labor minister) and myself, along with our advisers and, of course, the assistance of the provincial department of labor staff."

It was, then, purely a government effort, a reporter suggested.

"It was—no management and no labor," Mr. Bennett said.

Targets: Washington, Moscow

Dual Peace Drive Mapped by Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson announced Thursday night a dual British drive in Washington and Moscow to get Viet Nam peace talks started.

Wilson told the House of Commons that his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, will fly to Moscow Monday in an effort to persuade the Soviet Union to join Britain in reviving the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina as a forum for peace talks.

Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of that conference and would be jointly charged with reconvening it.

The prime minister also said he will explore every possibility for a Viet Nam settlement with President Johnson in the United States Dec. 17.

HOPEFUL STATEMENTS

But he made clear in replying to hostile questions from left-wing Labor MPs that in his view it is the North Vietnamese, not the Americans, who are blocking peace efforts.

British authorities said Wilson and Stewart are intrigued by a number of hopeful statements coming from minor Communist countries on the possibility of getting Viet Nam peace talks started.

Mobutu Declares Himself President for Five Years

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Lt.-Gen. Joseph Mobutu has declared himself president of the Congo for the next five years, saying the army "believes its responsibility is to protect the people from anarchy and chaos."

Earlier Thursday, the army commander had ousted President Joseph Kasavubu and his hand-picked premier in a bloodless coup. A friend of the west, Mobutu apparently believed Kasavubu had veered from a pro-Western policy.

Followers of ex-premier Moise Tshombe hailed the coup. There was speculation that Tshombe, who led the futile secession of Katanga province after independence from Belgium in 1960, would be called back to the government in some capacity.

Mobutu called a press conference to say that "since this morning I am the president."

DAWSON CREEK (CP) — Doctors said here Thursday a two-year-old child died as a result of internal hemorrhage from a gastric ulcer, rare in a young person.

Young Gordon Paradowski was admitted to hospital a week ago with third degree burns suffered at his home when he fell into a washtub filled with scalding water.

Doctors said the boy was recovering satisfactorily from the burns when he developed a gastric ulcer, which began to hemorrhage Wednesday.

North Viet Nam Denies 'Feelers'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam denied in effect Thursday that it has proposed negotiations to end the Vietnamese war.

The aim appeared to be to counteract random diplomatic reports over the last few months that the North Vietnamese were willing to talk. President Johnson expressed U.S. willingness last April to enter unconditional discussion. Nothing firm has developed.

Searcher Lost As Man Found

PORT HARDY (CP) — A search party lost one and gained one Thursday.

It found prospector Bud Ditto of Cranbrook and Vancouver who was lost in the Nahawilt Lake area about 16 miles west of Port Hardy.

But it lost Pat Taylor, 21, of Alert Bay, who wandered away from a search group to which he was assigned.

Thirty men will look for Taylor today. But an RCMP spokesman said he had a food supply and would probably walk out alone.

Nasser Open In Admiration Of Americans!

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser expressed admiration Wednesday for the development and drive of the American people. He said U.A.R. relations with the United States had shown a "great improvement" since the crisis at the beginning of the year.

In a 90-minute speech opening the National Assembly, Nasser attributed the crisis to differences over Israel but added "the two sides have exerted important efforts to ease the tension."

Relations between the two countries should be based on "mutual understanding and mutual esteem," he said.

Nasser made no mention of American aid but last night U.S. Ambassador Lucius Battle called on the president at the ambassador's request. There was speculation among political circles Battle informed Nasser of United States agreement to a new aid program.

A year ago on Thanksgiving Day, an Egyptian mob burned down the John F. Kennedy Library on the grounds of the U.S. Embassy, an event which helped disrupt U.A.R.-American relations.

In what observers said was his first reference to the Sino-Soviet dispute, Nasser commented: "Liberation movements supported by Russia and China have suffered as a result of this dispute."

He regretted the Sino-Soviet quarrel and hoped it had not reached the point of no return. Commenting on the Rhodesian situation, Nasser said: "Imperialism has been pretending its disapproval while it possesses the opportunity and means to change the situation."

HOPES RAISED

He made no reference to Britain in talking about Rhodesia, but said later there had been no improvement in U.A.R.-British relations despite the hopes raised when the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson took power.

Nasser said Franco-Egyptian friendship was strengthening and he praised President Charles de Gaulle as "one of the leading proponents of national dignity and national freedom."

Nasser reserved his warmest comments for Russia, noting relations between the two nations were becoming stronger and there was "a deep understanding" with the Soviet leaders as a result of his visit to Moscow in September.

Indonesians Told:

'We Don't Need Red Party'

JAKARTA (UPI)—Minister of Information Maj.-Gen. Achmad said Wednesday that existence of the Indonesian Communist Party was not necessary for the attainment of the aims of national revolution.

Comparing the revolutions of America and France, Achmad said the Indonesian revolution "is much bigger as its aim is three-fold—to fight against imperialism, to build an independent country, and to struggle for social justice and prosperity for the people."

WORKERS, STUDENTS

The general spoke to leaders of workers and student organizations at Makassar, Radio Jakarta said.

Achmad said the Sept. 30th Movement was only "like a part of a wave in a big ocean." But Indonesia's revolution was a major revolution and there was still much more to fight for, he said.

He stressed that Nasakom (nationalism, religion and Communism) was still the form of Indonesia's revolution but to "achieve the revolution, there was no need for the presence of the PKI."

Meanwhile the Indonesian military appeared to have be-

Bennett Meets Jones

Mr. Jones contends that the premier made statements at a Victoria Social Credit meeting on March 5 which slandered him.

Mr. Jones was removed subsequently from the office of provincial purchasing commission chairman.

In an examination for discovery, each of the contending parties has the opportunity to question the other. The informal inquiry may be conducted before the registrar but more often is not.

The statements made at the inquiry are taken down and transcripts made available to each counsel.

It is possible that the future disposition of the suit could hinge on the examination. Tentative date for the trial is Dec. 20 in Vancouver Law Courts.

and a spokesman for British American Oil Co. said they expected a settlement there on the basis of the B.C. formula, but the union spokesman said no end to the strike appeared in sight.

The settlement formula proposed Wednesday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and accepted within an hour by the union is seen in labor circles as a victory in the area of automation.

For one thing, it recognizes automation is a subject for collective bargaining. This principle, said Mr. Duncan, had been given "only some recognition in a few weak contracts, and was not recognized in the industry as a whole."

In the area of automation, the formula called for a standing labor-management committee on automation, six months notice of automation changes leading to layoffs, as asked by the union, government-management retraining of employees displaced by automation, and a week's severance pay for every year of service, up to 26 weeks. The OCAW had sought a year's severance pay for every five years of service.

The settlement formula called for a two-year contract giving a total wage increase of 35 cents. The union had asked for 50 cents, on the base rate of $2.75 an hour.

Mr. Duncan said the automation committee proposal was a suggestion made by the union during negotiations. He said the final automation terms were "not too far" from the union's last position during bargaining, but said the wage settlement was a little disappointing.

Imperial Oil Co. said the wage settlement was "inflationary," and would inevitably be reflected in costs to the economy as a whole.

Your Good Health

How to Live a Long Life: Care for Chronic Condition

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: When I retired in 1961 my problem was diagnosed as coronary heart disease. The severe chest pains have long since disappeared, and so has shortness of breath unless I forego rest periods after meals.

However, a bluish tint prevails around my lips. It is more pronounced when I am tired.

What is your guess as to my longevity in view of this, as well as that I'm always occupied in some benevolent enterprise? It seems I'm busier now at 70 working for free than I was when earning a substantial salary.—S.H.P.

I broke my crystal ball long ago and refuse to predict longevity. Disgustingly healthy people get run over by cars or develop some unexpected disease, and die. And people with dangerous conditions succeed in taking care of themselves very effectively and outlive others who seemingly have nothing to worry about.

There's more truth than nonsense in the advice about the way to live a long life: Have some chronic condition that you have to take care of.

This is true of several kinds of heart disease. A cranky heart will still serve us for a long time if given half a chance.

Many people who develop heart disease refuse to believe this, and insist on going at the rate they are used to—with disastrous results.

At the other extreme, there are people with comparatively mild heart trouble (not that we can call such a thing really "mild") who ought to remain moderately active, but they don't. They are so overwhelmed and frightened that they go into reverse and don't do anything. That's bad for them, too.

GREAT LESSON
So what about you? You have a serious heart condition, but you have learned the one great lesson: Remain active within your limitations, and know what the limitations are.

You have, in the last four years, ridden yourself of your heart pains, and you have learned the amount of rest you need in order to avoid shortness of breath. If only we could convince ALL heart patients of the importance of these simple but vital facts we would be far ahead.

NOT SURPRISING
Yes, you have some blueness of the lips, but that is scarcely surprising. You know your heart isn't as strong as it used to be.

You remain active and interested, and you know how to protect yourself against trying to do too much.

I can't guess how long you will live. I couldn't guess even if you didn't have a heart that needs to be bailed along. But barring the unexpected, you ought to have some years of continuing your benevolent activities.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true?—MRS. C.S.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true?—MRS. C.S.

There may be some misinterpretation or misunderstanding of what he was told. Diabetes in itself does not preclude removal of cataracts. Many people with diabetes are aided by such surgery.

However, if the diabetes has damaged the back of the eye, removal of the cataracts would do no good. Changes in the eye, other than cataracts, can occur from diabetes.

Removal of cataracts is beneficial only if the rest of the eye is in adequately good condition.

Court Convicts Gallery Owner

TORONTO (CP) — Former art gallery proprietor Dorothy Cameron was found guilty Thursday by Magistrate Fred Hayes on seven charges of displaying obscene pictures. The magistrate fined Miss Cameron $50 on each charge. At defence request she was given two weeks to pay, with an alternative of five days in jail on each count to run consecutively. In a 40-minute judgment, the magistrate said he considered that all the paintings, which had hung in Miss Cameron's gallery, unduly exploited sex. The community standards by which the pictures must be considered, he said, are "the standards of the middleman," not those of people with an intense interest in art. Miss Cameron declined comment on the verdict. Her lawyer, Meredith Fleming, said he hoped she would appeal, but "the decision is hers." The magistrate said the human form is a legitimate subject for art but he felt the artists in question had portrayed attitudes involving male and female figures that went beyond the bounds of decency. Charges against Miss Cameron were laid by morality officers after the public viewing of her Eros '65 exhibition last May in her Yonge Street gallery, which has since closed. The pictures that were the subject of the magistrate's ruling were by artists Robert Marile, Lawrence Chaplin and Fred Ross. The judgment said they "did not serve the public good."

Martin Urges Maturity

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin Thursday asked Canadians for greater maturity in discussion of public issues. Speaking at an Osgoode Hall Legal and Literary Society luncheon here, he said "we must settle down to the hard and serious business of assessing and solving the problems which confront this nation today." He asked for positive and creative government, "which does not dominate or blunt the spontaneous development of our society." Turning to international issues, Mr. Martin said Canada imposed economic sanctions against the Rhodesian regime of Ian Smith because action was necessary to fulfil Canada's part as a Commonwealth member and because the establishment of a white minority government there brought about understandable reactions by independent African governments.

Vital Rice Crops Prize of Battle

SAIGON (AP) — An allied force of several thousand men, supported by U.S. B-52 bombers pressed a drive in the Vo Dat valley northeast of Saigon today to deny a vital rice harvest to the Viet Cong.

The eight-engine B-52 Stratofortresses rained tons of bombs into a suspected Viet Cong concentration menacing the joint ground operation of U.S. Australian and South Vietnamese battalions.

A U.S. military spokesman said the B-52 strike was 75 miles northeast of Saigon, which would place it on the eastern edge of the area where the allied forces are attempting to sweep the valley of Viet Cong to control the harvest.

At stake are some 3,400 tons of rice, enough to feed several Viet Cong—or government—divisions for a year, U.S. military sources said.

There was no reported ground contact today between the Viet Cong and the allied troops roaming through central Binh Tuy province.

Viet Cong in a skirmish Wednesday while they were clearing a road on the fringe of the valley.

There was turkey in the mess halls and religious services in the chapels Thursday, as most American ground troops in South Viet Nam observed U.S. Thanksgiving Day without combat.

But on the edge of a jungle area called D Zone, 30 miles northwest of Saigon, several men of a U.S. 1st Infantry Division patrol died in a firefight with two Viet Cong platoons. The American casualties were officially described as light. Viet Cong losses, if any, were not determined.

BODIES FOUND
A U.S. spokesman said, however, the bodies of 210 enemy killed in previous actions were found in various parts of South Viet Nam.

The Viet Cong kept up pressure against South Vietnamese troops along the central coast Guerrillas overran a small post near Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, and fired mortars at Hiep Duc and Thach Tru, each a recent battle centre.

In a broader field, a death struggle seemed to be shaping up for the central highlands. Reinforcements arriving daily are bolstering enemy contingents—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese—estimated at 22,000 now roaming that area. The impression in Saigon is that, with losses among government troops in sporadic clashes, the situation is deteriorating despite the infusion of the 16,000-man U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division.

Murder Trial Set

BONN (Reuters) — LAC Edward Ziesmann, 28, of the RCAF will face a court martial Dec. 7 at Zweibrücken, West Germany, charged with the murder of his wife and two small daughters, the RCAF said here Thursday.

The RCAF spokesman said Ziesmann, from Emerson, Man., faces three separate capital murder charges. If convicted on any one charge, he could receive a death sentence under Canadian law.

Deborah Janice Ziesmann, 28, and the couple's two daughters, Donna Vivian, 5, and Rachel Viola, 3, were found dead Sept. 16 at their home in the married quarters at Walshausen air base near Zweibrücken. The three apparently had been suffocated.

Dangerous Precedent

BRITISH COLUMBIA consumers, no less than the parties more immediately affected—the members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (OCA) and the oil industry—are undoubtedly relieved that a settlement has been reached in the dispute which threatened a disastrous dislocation of the whole provincial economy.

It was the union's contention that its principal concern was with the effect of automation upon its membership and their continuing job security.

The government-proposed settlement formula gave them assurance of a joint union-management committee for continuing consideration of technological changes; which presumably means employee-employer study of the effects of automation upon job continuity.

It promises management-government co-operation in retraining men displaced by automation, plus severance pay, on the basis of a week's wages for each year worked, and six months' notice of termination of employment.

It is not necessary to point out that these measures of protection become redundant when the automation program has been effected and the machine has finally taken over from the man.

Incidentally, the terms of settlement include an increase in wages of 35 cents an hour over a two-year period (the union had demanded 50 cents), 10 cents retroactive to April 16, 1965, 10 cents more on the signing of an agreement and the balance of 15 cents effective April 16, 1966.

Labor generally has hailed the settlement as a victory for the unions. While everyone will acknowledge their right to fight for job security, a good many others—including a large proportion of the labor force—will not agree with the methods employed in this case. The calling of a two-day general strike, for example, is generally condemned as a threat of illegal action, in contravention of the terms of contract between management and labor.

What is more disturbing is the realization that this maneuver was successful; and that it was supported by the B.C. Federation of Labor without the authorization of a ballot of membership.

The government, belatedly, offered a compromise in the face of this threat, thus allowing the establishment of a dangerous precedent.

It is inevitable, of course, that the general public will pay for whatever financial advantages the OCAU has gained.

But what of the future? Are such methods as were used in this instance to be the pattern of settlements in other industries which will be affected by automation? And if so, what possible use are contracts in industry, or, for that matter, the statutes which are supposed to govern us?

If our labor laws are out of date we must make haste to overhaul them. The time would appear to have come when the installation of some sort of machinery for compulsory and binding arbitration is an immediate necessity. The alternative, it seems, is settlement by waving the big fist. And it is the consumer who gets the bloody nose.

Creditably Close

THE UNITED APPEAL is ended for this year, short of its goal of $439,210 by some $16,000, according to the estimate of what the final collection total will be when the accounts are tidied up.

For the Red Feather agencies which make up the Community Chest so close a miss is naturally disappointing, but the effort made and the response to the appeal are not without some satisfaction.

Donations this year exceeded both the total objective of a year ago and the amount then raised, indicating that the spirit of giving is still very much to the fore in this area. To fall short by only 4 per cent of the desired amount can be described at least as having come creditably close.

Spread over the many social agencies which depend on this annual fund raising campaign the small debit should not seriously hamper their operations.

To the many officials and volunteer workers who devoted much time and personal contribution to the United Appeal, and to the many donors, spread through all levels of the community, there goes thanks for the work done and the generosity expressed in the tangible form that was sought.

It would have been nice to have gone over the top, but on the whole and in view of all the other obligations that make inescapable demands on the resources of the community the attainment of 96 per cent of the objective aimed at must be deemed worthwhile.

The agencies concerned and the valuable services they perform will carry on unabated.

Hardly Irrelevant

AN AIR FORCE official in Vancouver has explained why earlier this month the Air-Sea Rescue organization refused to fly a badly injured man from Williams Lake to the mainland city. In brief the reason was that Air-Sea is not an ambulance service, and it was not a matter of life or death.

One concedes readily that the RCAF's search and rescue organization must operate under a set policy that keeps its facilities on the alert and available for its primary purposes. It could not function properly if its aircraft were diverted on missions not normally part of its responsibilities—unless only where life itself were at stake.

If as reported an RCAF aircraft was in the Williams Lake area preparing to return to Vancouver, however, it can scarcely be claimed that the request to put the injured man aboard was irrelevant and had no bearing on official policy. The request would not have been made had this plane not been in the neighborhood, nor would policy have been upset by conveying him if the plane was flying to Vancouver anyway.

The RCAF most certainly has a fine record of coming to the relief of those in distress and there are many instances of its prompt and humane response as part of the Air-Sea rescue agency. It is not easy to see nevertheless how in this particular instance protocol, policy or anything else would have been seriously affected if the aircraft in question had taken the injured man aboard. No criticism would have been directed at the RCAF had this been done.

There are times in government operation of any kind when red tape intrudes to prevent what otherwise would seem to be the obvious and natural thing to do. The Williams Lake incident seems to have been one of them.

Ottawa Offbeat

At Everybody's Beck and Call

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

FOR the last couple of weeks, MPs and ex-MPs, the winners and the losers, have been drifting in and out of the capital. Some, those who didn't finish first in the November 8 political races, returning for the last time in likely some years, to clean out their desks, take down their memory-book of pictures from the walls, watch their secretaries shed a wistful tear or two, close and lock their Cawson or West Block offices, say farewell to old friends who shared exciting times, and then go home to take up, if they can, their lives where they left them off when first they put those proud initials "MP" after their names and came to Parliament Hill.

(Funny thing, too, as you listen to them blather almost lovingly over the last goodbyes, they seem only to remember the great moments of high excitement, never grey hours of dull monotony.)

Some, the veterans, returned to run through the mail that piled up for them in the House of Commons post office those nine weeks they were knocking on all those doors and drinking all that coffee.

And some, the first-time MPs, who can't wait for the opening of the new twenty-seventh Parliament now only seven weeks away, have to come up for a preview and political "casting" of the place.

After watching MPs at work and play—and there isn't really much of the latter, there being little time and less inclination—through going-on-24-hours of Parliament and eight national election campaigns, you begin to wonder why anybody in their rational mind would want to sit in the House of Commons.

Even at that quite comfortable, thank you, annual $18,000-plus.

For the moment a man puts the seat of his pants to the test, the member of Commons bench shares with a fellow-MP, his time, in fact his life as it ordinarily is lived, no longer is his own.

And if he ever was lucky enough to be his own man, he won't be again for all the days of his Ottawa life.

Instead, he'll be at everybody's—repeat everybody's—beck and call, beck home in his constituency. Then, unless he's Somebody Very Special, he'll be a chore-boy and yes-man for Anybody Who's Anybody in his party here on The Hill. (And he had better step lively, responding in smiling good grace to one and all.)

When a man decides to stand for Parliament he must reconcile himself to the hard fact of public life that if he wins the glittering prize of becoming what generally is recognized as THE regional or community leader in national affairs, he ceases to be a private citizen and becomes your and everybody else's district doorman.

It has been Canada's great good luck that there are enough of these selfless—and let's face it, slightly irrational—hounds for public punishment—to do the job.

When your MP isn't glued to his Commons bench—and in this Parliament, with the Liberal minority—almost—majority making every vote count so he'll be truly stuck there—the poor harried and harassed guy will be pinned to his office desk under mountains of mail.

Phone calls, more of them collected than not, will pursue him to restaurant, cafeteria, Commons lobby, the parliamentary reading room, the library, wherever he goes, even back to his room or apartment when the long day is done.

Delegations will haunt him, and touring groups such as Boy Scouts, a brace of classes from the collegiate, safety patrols, church and college clubs will come to call.

Unless they are so large as to be completely unmanageable in the financial sense, after escorting them on a tour of Parliament Hill and arranging for them to be shown the Sights-of-the-Capital, he'll take them to lunch in the parliamentary restaurant.

This can be pretty expensive, for in any session, unless he comes from the Northwest Territories or the furthest Newfie outposts—and then he can't count on being entirely safe—he'll stand lunch for hundreds, even, and it has happened to some of the big city constituency MPs, thousands.

The sponsors of every good and worthy cause back home will want money—twice as much as when he was making an annual $10,000—and the one thing he can't afford is the luxury of saying no.

If he attends to business on The Hill, he's condemned at home for neglecting the constituency, and if he remains in the riding to do his home-work, he's criticized for playing Parliamentary hooky.

Truth to tell, it often seems that when he wins the seat and that MP after his name, he really loses.

since we did not resolve the situation at the polls.

Despite the fact that only a few of the elected members actually earn the $18,000 they voted themselves in salary—and "majority" votes pinpoint these—nevertheless a tired machine cannot do good work. Let them have their beautiful rest period to think things over in the cold, clear light of Canada's disapproval—then gathering strength for vital criticism we may contribute by standing "on guard" for our land, for such vigilance has become crucially necessary.

Out of Place

If Victoria's centennial celebrations are to be directed by a company from Fostoria, Ohio, as reported in Sunday's Colonist, I trust that the tourist bureau will take note in planning their summer publicity.

The "Little Bit of Old England" type of appeal will definitely be out of place. May I suggest "The Disneyland of the Northwest" or "Follow the American Eagle to Victoria" as more suitable slogans.

Toys are Teachers

We are a group of mothers who last year became concerned about the distortion of the Christmas message by the seasonal promotion of toys of destruction.

On every side we are besieged with high-pressure advertising asking us to honor the birthday of the Prince of Peace by filling our children's stockings with miniature weapons of war.

Each year these ghastly replicas grow more realistic and more brutal, as "cowboys and Indians" give way to booby traps and land-mines—the whole horrifying spectrum of mass destruction.

Toys are teachers, and we feel that we cannot honestly tell children of the sacredness of human life while allowing them to play at shooting and killing.

Toys which encourage creative play, which introduce children to the magic of science, which increase skills, are vital to healthy child development. We can help our children to grow physically, mentally and spiritually by providing them with such playthings.

Those who agree with us could help to shift the emphasis from destructive to constructive toys and games, and we feel that this matter deserves everyone's serious consideration.

U.S. Dilemma

Side-by-Side Wars

By WENDELL S. MERICK from Saigon

THE WAR in Viet Nam is openly to take command of the South Viet Nam forces owing to the risk of revolt by the Vietnamese personnel. In any case, the government would not agree. Yet the Americans point out that their troops hold a twelve-to-one ratio over the enemy compared with the government forces' three-to-one. It is a case of the more effective use of fire power and general tactics.

The Americans certainly will not place their men under Viet Nam command and the reverse is equally unlikely. In a sense, therefore, two wars will be fought against the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam, one American, the other South Vietnamese, with the American effort dominating the headlines.

But American successes on the battlefield may be outweighed by losses on the political front. Not surprisingly, this problem is causing much concern in both camps, and no solution is in sight.

The Americans do not want

Fundamental Points

By MAX FREEDMAN from Washington

THE Johnson administration has always tried hard to avoid being drawn into a public quarrel with Secretary-General U Thant over Viet Nam. That has not always been easy.

On one unfortunate occasion the secretary-general used words to describe U.S. policy that cast the gravest slur on the purposes of the United States in Viet Nam. Many correspondents in Washington will remember the meeting at which the late Ambassador Adlai Stevenson tried to explain away this outburst. He said the secretary-general did not really mean to indulge in ugly speculation about American motives. He quoted U Thant's lapse with the plea that he had been betrayed into a false run of words by his imperfect mastery of the English language. The secretary-general had blundered into his offensive remarks while answering questions without a prepared text at a press conference.

A large part of the American press failed to show a similar tolerance. The secretary-general was criticized in many papers with severe indignation for failing to draw an adequate distinction between Communist aggression and American resistance to that aggression. The important point however is that the Johnson administration did not seek an easy and cheap popularity with ill-informed opinion by echoing this criticism.

Both President Johnson and Secretary Rusk know that the secretary-general has his own high duties to the cause of peace. They have been very careful to avoid anything which would discredit the secretary-general personally or weaken the potential usefulness of the United Nations in ending this war. They have had frequent cause to be irritated by what the secretary-general has said or done; but their public criticism has always been a restrained expression of their true anxieties.

This background is worth recalling now in the light of the secretary-general's recent statement that the present fierce fighting could have been avoided if the United States had responded more favorably to his efforts a year ago.

Now it should be remembered by everyone that the primary aim of South Viet Nam and the United States is not merely to end the war but to end it without appeasement, without rewarding Communist aggression, and without exposing South Viet Nam to the danger of renewed attack. Peace could have been obtained long ago if these safeguards were to be ignored or violated.

The next point to remember is that the secretary-general had no mandate to end the war by personal mediation. All he was trying to do—and it was important and constructive service—was to arrange an agreed agenda that would make it possible for peace talks to be held. There never was any assurance that such a peace conference would succeed, even if it took place.

The third point concerns the timing of the secretary-general's diplomacy. It occurred when the tide of battle still favored the Communist side but when many clear signs existed that a stern increase in the U.S. military commitment was at hand. It should surprise no one that North Viet Nam looked with favor on peace talks held against the background of its own military victories and the threatened disintegration of South Viet Nam as a fighting force.

This brings one to the fourth and decisive point. At no time in his negotiations with North Viet Nam did the secretary-general receive satisfactory assurances that the Communists would give up the villages and territory captured by them in South Viet Nam. On the contrary, there was the strongest reason to believe that the Communists wanted a cease-fire that would in effect give them permanent control of the districts in their military grasp.

The Johnson administration would have been an aggregation of mad fanatics if it had chosen to reject a safe and honorable peace for the sake of a bigger war and more American casualties. The United States was unresponsive to the secretary-general's efforts a year ago because it was convinced on the evidence available to it that the projected cease-fire would not lead to a genuine peace settlement but would instead be a deceptive formula to ratify and perpetuate Communist military conquests. In addition, there was no convincing evidence that North Viet Nam would respect the independence and integrity of South Viet Nam.

On these fundamental points, it is not enough to have the secretary-general's good will and devotion to peace. It is also necessary to have more definite assurances and firmer guarantees than his personal diplomacy managed to uncover. His efforts at a settlement failed because they were sadly deficient in arranging for an honorable peace and not because of a wicked lust for war in Washington.

Party Subsidies

By ROLAND HUNTFORD from Stockholm

THE Swedish government has decided to subsidize political parties with public funds. It is in a sense the logical consequence of a political situation unchanged for too long. The Social Democrats have been in power for 33 years, political life has begun to atrophy, and official methods have begun to revitalize it.

The government's bill proposes an annual subsidy of 60,000 kroner ($13,500) per member of the Diet (Parliament). The Social Democrats have 192 of 384 seats. They are the largest single party, and will receive about 11,500,000 kroner ($2,700,000) a year. The Communists, the smallest Diet party, have 10 members.

There has been fierce resistance to the idea of party subsidies from politicians who see in them a threat to parliamentary democracy by tying a party, however loosely, to the state. These men are mostly from the Right and, in fact, the only organized opposition in the Diet comes from the Conservatives. But, with their 58 seats, they will be unable to defeat the bill.

Supporters of the bill argue that political parties are vital "organs for the formation of public opinion," which are too important to be left to the charity of individual citizens or, worse still, the contributions of private firms. It is, they say, a matter for the state to deal with.

Opponents, however, see in the measure a hasty attempt to subsidize the struggling government press. Certainly the present bill was laid before the Diet with such speed as to arouse the suspicion of many politicians. It appeared soon after another government proposal (which failed) to subsidize the press.

The reasoning in support of the previous proposal was similar to that of the present: that concerned organs forming public opinion. But the opposition, with the exception of the Communists, saw in this a device to subsidize the government press at the expense of their own, for their newspapers managed very well while Social Democratic newspapers were generally in difficulties.

But many politicians, particularly of the Centre and Liberal parties, favored party subsidies. They have had increasing difficulties in raising funds, and felt that state help would be acceptable by relieving them of fund-raising duties and enabling them to concentrate on parliamentary work. They saw in West German practice (where parties are also subsidized) a useful precedent.

It seems almost certain that the Social Democrats will use their subsidy to help their press while the opposition will spend it on their ailing party apparatus. It is even suggested that the government was driven to the present measure by the financial straits of their major newspapers, and the complaints of the "Landesorganisation" (trades union congress), which had subsidized them.

The principal burden is Stockholm Tidningen, a Stockholm daily, and generally accepted as the trade union mouthpiece. This has run for years at a loss believed to 14 million kroner a year. The "Landesorganisation" are understood to have said that they cannot meet this loss much longer, and there was talk of the paper closing down. It was then that the press subsidies were mooted and a commission appointed to investigate the matter.

to bomb the Cambodian "sanctuary" which the Communist Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars are believed to be enjoying.

There also is a reassessment going on here of strikes against industrial targets in North Viet Nam. These already have been thoroughly charted and units here are waiting the word from Washington. The feeling here is that the go sign might be given because recent fighting has indicated that the North Vietnamese are quite prepared to let the war escalate into another Korea. There are no signs that the present restricted bombings are bringing the Communists any closer to negotiations.

New Ruler's Rivals Could Rock Kuwait

By JOE ALEX MORRIS, from Beirut

Sheik Abbagh Al-Salem Al-Sabah, 51, who had been proclaimed the new ruler of Kuwait, is generally considered a weak and ineffectual personality and there are at least three other aspirants for the throne among the immediate members of the ruling family.

New Ruler of Kuwait

In the past 15 years oil has changed Kuwait from a desert back-water into the richest of all Arab states. Its income last year was $646,000,000, 95 per cent of it coming from oil revenues. Oil has transformed Kuwait into an air-conditioned welfare state for its 400,000 inhabitants, only about half of whom are Kuwaiti citizens.

Sheik Abdullah who died Wednesday, was perhaps the last traditional ruler in the Arab world. Despite growing political turbulence in his principality he was widely respected and referred to as "the wise ruler."

With his passing the most immediate threat to political stability comes from the traditional rivalry between the two branches of the ruling family, the Salems and the Ahmeds.

The new ruler is a Salem but he is not the man generally considered to be head of the branch. This title usually is given to Sheik Jaber el Ali, the minister of information and guidance.

The most important challenge, however, is likely to come from the other branch, the Ahmeds which is led by Sheik Jaber el Ahmed, the minister of finance and son of a previous ruler, Sheik Ahmed, who died in 1950. His mother was a sister of Sheik Abdullah.

He has assiduously courted the fledgling Nasser faction in the national assembly, which although it controls only a dozen of the 50 seats has often appeared stronger on issues involving Arab nationalism.

As minister of finance he was largely responsible for Kuwait's policy of bankrolling power Arab states and nationalist political causes in order to buy acceptance and respectability. This policy has worked to the extent

BACKGROUND

Touring Kennedy Running Hard For Presidency

By MAGGY O'DOUL, from Santiago, Chile

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has left presidential talk rippling in the wake of his South American tour.

The character, timing and motives of the visit of the youthful Democratic senator from New York have aroused a good deal of speculation in Peru, Chile, Argentina, Brazil and Venezuela.

U.S. residents, particularly those Americans on the staffs of the U.S. embassies, commented that the arrangements for the private tour resembled a presidential visit more than a congressional trip.

In Lima, Peru, the U.S. embassy staff was hard pressed when the Kennedy party arrived.

Tom Johnston, one of Kennedy's accompanying lieutenants, put them through an obstacle course on organization.

Their transport, hotel accommodations and embassy residence arrangements, their speech writing, their itinerary schedules, their social arrangements, all were scrutinized, edited and bossed with hard-eyed professionalism by tour manager Johnston.

In Chile, Kennedy's second stop, Ambassador Ralph Dungan, one of the late president's special assistants and a warm personal friend of the New York senator, was ready for the Kennedy arrival. His well-briefed embassy staff operated smoothly throughout the exhausting five days of the Chile visit.

Reports from Argentina, Brazil, and Venezuela, indicate similar tensely organized planning.

Kennedy's comment that he is travelling "to exchange ideas and learn first-hand how Latin America is reacting to the Alliance for Progress" is considered only a partial explanation for such a virtuoso performance.

The senator was accompanied by a party of 28, about half of them newsmen and television personnel. The rest are personal friends and staff from his office, including an interpreter and Richard Nathan Goodwin, his late brother's adviser on Latin America.

The image Kennedy seems intent on building is one of a U.S. senator loyal to President Johnson, yet one who is also more permissive and friendly in his feelings toward Latin America than policies emanating from Washington make Johnston appear.

KENNEDY

The trepidation that is felt in Latin America about President Johnson is reflected in the questions put to Kennedy at his press conferences and during meetings with Latin leaders and university students.

The most frequent was why Johnson elected to send troops to keep the peace in Santo Domingo.

Kennedy, who is on record as opposing the original decision, has been saying that he is against unilateral intervention by one country in the affairs of another. But he adds that the need of some kind of permanent peace-keeping force "is worth study and consideration."

When asked about his presidential ambitions, the senator answers that he has none, that President Johnson is doing a fine job and, in his opinion, will run and win again in 1968.

However, Kennedy is believed to have his eyes on 1972 when Vice-President Hubert Humphrey would be his most likely opponent.

The senator's Latin tour at this time, in which he has courteously, gently, yet clearly projected his own image as distinct from that of Johnson or Humphrey, suggests that he is running hard for the presidency.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Buy a 1966 Beaumont

Beaumont Custom Sport Coupe

It's pretty tough to think of practicality when you're face-to-face with a car as impressive as Beaumont. There's excitement in every line. Luxury in three-ton Beaumont interiors have rich, color-keyed upholstery and wall-to-wall, deep-rib carpeting in most models. Performance? Beaumont's standard 120-horsepower thrust is a smooth and quiet with plenty of "go". For high-performance excitement, available engines range up to a 380-horsepower V8! Then you can get a four-speed floor shift as an automatic, in addition to the standard three speed transmission—now fully synchronized! So Beaumont's beautiful... luxurious... and a performer. So what's so practical? The price. And the roominess. And the trim overall size. And the economical operation. And like that. So don't be dazzled just by Beaumont's beauty. Check its practical side. Then buy one.

For Sacred Leadership

Thompson Comes Out Fighting

EDMONTON (CP)—Robert Thompson came out of his corner at the national Social Credit convention Thursday to fight for his party leadership.

Bert Leboe, 56, Social Credit MP for Cariboo, and H. A. (Bud) Olson, 40, MP for Medicine Hat, have tossed their hats into the leadership ring at the convention, which is held every four years.

There appeared to be some bitterness between Mr. Thompson and Mr. Olson. Mr. Thompson refused a newspaper photographer's request to pose with Mr. Olson for a picture.

"CHALLENGING ME" Mr. Thompson said in an interview: "One man, Mr. Leboe, has entered because he thinks there should be a contest. The other, Mr. Olson, is challenging me."

"Mr. Olson is a very capable member of Parliament. He is a good man. Not to be ambitious is not one of his traits."

"REASON ENOUGH" Mr. Olson said the result of the election, in which Social Credit Commons strength dropped to five from nine, was "reason enough" for him to challenge the party leader.

Mr. Thompson at times appeared defensive in his leader's report Thursday to 400 convention delegates.

"WHAT MORE?" After listing some of the problems that have beset the party in the four years of his leadership, including the split with the Quebec Creditists and financial difficulties, he said: "I don't see what more could have been done."

"It's a human characteristic to try to blame our problems on others but I believe we must look to ourselves," he said at another point.

Lack of Full Slate 'Cost Socreds Federal Election'

EDMONTON (CP)—Many Social Crediters believe their party's biggest mistake in the Nov. 8 federal election was failing to run a full slate of candidates.

A university campus party leader told 500 persons at the annual Social Credit convention Thursday that the lack of a full slate and the split with the Quebec Creditists cost Social Credit many votes.

"Many people said during the campaign, 'I'd vote for you if you had a chance,'" Delbert Dynna, former Social Credit campus leader at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, told the convention. Mr. Dynna was unsuccessful as Social Credit candidate in Saskatoon.

CHOICE Mr. Dynna said people who supported free enterprise principles were faced with a choice in the election campaign.

They could vote for Social Credit knowing that the party had no chance of forming a government because of its small slate. Alternately, they could vote for another political party which had enough candidates to form a government and which they believed would work in some degree at least for free enterprise principles.

"HURT US MOST" Art Wiebe, unsuccessful Social Credit candidate in the Alberta riding of Acadia agreed.

"The thing that hurt us most was not having a full slate," he said in an interview.

Orvis Kennedy, president of the Alberta Social Credit League, said he believes the party could have won eight

Socred Backing Limited

EDMONTON (CP)—Social Credit leader Robert Thompson said Thursday his group in the House of Commons will not support any non-confidence motion designed only to promote a party's political fortunes.

Thus, he said, if the Progressive Conservatives move a motion of non-confidence in the Liberal government on grounds that the Liberals won't raise old age pensions to $100, the five Social Credit MPs will vote against the motion.

ONLY MORAL ISSUE He said that in such a situation it would be clear that the Conservatives were only trying to promote their own political fortunes, perhaps through another election.

He said Social Credit would support any motion of non-confidence based on the issue of morality in government.

organizations affiliated with the national party and not to the national party itself.

Again, referring to the split with the Creditists: "This is being used against me very effectively at this convention that I was responsible for this split."

Mr. Thompson said the party finances had been so bad that he and National President Martin Kellin of Regina had to pay many of their own expenses.

DOUGLAS DOCTRINE Mr. Thompson told the delegates he "absolutely rejects" any suggestion that he has deserted the doctrines of the original Social Credit theorist, English engineer C. H. Douglas.

He said Douglas's doctrines have to be applied today in different circumstances than prevailed when the doctrines were drafted.

Mr. Thompson was given a brief standing ovation by most of the delegates when he concluded.

SPLIT IN DEFENCE In his report to the convention, Mr. Thompson said there was no personal conflict between him and Real Caouette.

The split came about because of differences over defence policy and Mr. Caouette's suggestion to disciplinary action against six Quebec Social Credit MPs who signed a document supporting the minority Liberal government after the 1963 election.

Without the split, Social Credit could now be the official opposition in the Commons, he said.

The party leader said the basic cause of the national group's financial problems is that party members pay dues only to provincial Social Credit

Roberts Tells Britain

Firm Federal Hand Needed

LONDON (CP) — Premier John Roberts of Ontario told Britons Thursday Canada needs a firm federal government to counter divisive empire-building by the provinces.

In a speech, the Progressive Conservative premier proposed that Canada should "put aside partisan political disputes" to make minority government work in Ottawa for at least two years.

He agreed at a press conference later that his political-peace proposal conflicts with national Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker's view of the Opposition's role. Roberts, 48, denied at the press conference that he now is a candidate for the national Progressive Conservative leadership, but suggested that his mind might be changed.

In a luncheon speech to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Britain, Roberts cited regional conflicts of interest in Canada and said "there are potential dangers if there is no strong unified central government which will be directly responsible for progress and forward national economic policies."

"Once we permit provinces to develop empires we are going to be in trouble nationally," he added in a departure from his prepared speech.

However, Roberts predicted Canada would solve problems of national unity and development by compromise.

"The parties will have to co-operate to make Parliament work for at least two years," he said.

All Officers Looked Alike To Chauffeur

OTTAWA (CP) — A Toronto chauffeur testified at the trial of Brig. John Baxter Allan Thursday of his 24-year career driving people, including military officers of many nations, for Levy Auto Parts Co. Ltd. Albert (Al) Blumenfeld told of driving military personnel to and from Toronto hotels. He didn't know who most of his passengers were but "we've got a guest book right in the office — a lot of them signed it."

"Once and a while I used to pick up the brigadier," he said in reference to the accused. "I took him down to the Westbury Hotel."

ADVANTAGE
Brig. Allan, 51, is charged with accepting advantage or benefit to a value in excess of $3,000 between 1957 and 1963 while he was an official of the Canadian government.

The charge says the advantage arose from payment of hotel bills, for merchandise and transfer of stock from brothers Morris, Mark, Edward and Benjamin Levy who, in their capacity as directors or agents of three Toronto firms, had dealings with the Canadian government.

DROVE MANY OFFICERS
Mr. Blumenfeld said he "picked up lots of military people at Malton . . . many officers and a great many armies and a great many nations."

Asked whether he knew the ranks of his passengers, he replied: "They all looked the same to me — besides, I'm not very bright, sir."

'JUST DRIVER'
Asked by Judge Peter Macdonald whether he recalled anything else about the military personnel, the witness said: "I don't ask questions. I'm just a driver, sir."

His passengers included officers of the armies of India, United States, West Germany and France. His instructions to pick up passengers were handed him in the Levy offices on unsigned slips of paper.

He said he phoned the Westbury "once or twice to have a room ready for Brig. Allan" and sometimes signed the account at the hotel on behalf of the Levys. He recalled driving the accused from the hotel to several Toronto area military installations.

STAYED AT HOTEL
Bert Reitter, office manager at the Westbury since 1957, testified that the accused stayed at the hotel "roughly 20 to 25 times" and the accounts "were in all cases charged to Levy Auto Parts."

The accounts totalled "roughly between $100 and $200 on each occasion."

Gerald de la Durantaye, a record examiner in the Ontario attorney-general's office, identified several signatures on Westbury reservations cards as those of Brig. Allan.

Earlier Thursday Judge Macdonald cautioned the jury to disregard newspaper accounts of the trial. "Already during this trial there have been two instances . . . (where) newspaper reports appeared that should not have appeared."

"I want you to completely ignore what you read in the newspapers . . . you are to be guided in your deliberations only by the sworn evidence you hear from the witness box."

In his warning to the jury he did not identify the newspaper or newspapers. The trial continues.

Exploration Extended
LONDON (CP) — The government announced an extension of Britain's undersea oil and gas exploration, with several Canadian companies sharing in new licences.

Canadian Industrial Gas (U.K.) Ltd., and Place Oil and Gas Co. (U.K.) Ltd., each received single licences, while Home Oil of Canada Ltd., Canadian Pacific Oil and Gas of Canada Ltd. and Alminex (U.K.) Ltd., received a licence as a group.

A spokesman said the Canadian firms' share will be about five per cent of the approximately 10,000 square miles being opened for exploration in the North Sea and the Irish Sea, the latter area being included for the first time.

Fisher Says Liberal Party Cut Off from Late Funds

OTTAWA (CP) — Douglas New Democratic Party MP for Port Arthur said he has heard the untold story of the federal election is what happened to the Liberal party's campaign fund collections in the late stages of the campaign. He said an expected late rush of financial donations did not materialize and apparently hampered the Liberals' advertising program. Speaking to the Canadian Club of Ottawa, the former Liberal Party MP for advertising in the last week of the campaign but it never appeared. He said Walter Gordon, then finance minister and head of the Liberal campaign, explained it away by saying the party decided it didn't want to go in for "show-off" spending at the last minute. "I don't believe that even in the national headquarters of the Liberal party there could be that much detachment."

House Leader Hoping For 'Co-operation'

OTTAWA (UPI) — Liberal government House leader George McNeil expects "good co-operation" from opposition parties to get legislation through the new parliamentary session opening Jan. 18.

The mild-mannered, 57-year-old public works minister said in an interview Thursday the government has a great deal of business to put before the Commons.

"I'm looking forward to the session. We have a very good program, and I want to have it dealt with and enacted into law. And I would expect good co-operation from all the members, notwithstanding what has been said in the press."

Parliament Hill's pressmen are predicting one of the most acrimonious sessions in Commons History. They are basing their predictions on the Liberal government's failure to get a majority in the Nov. 8 election, and on opposition indications they are champing at the bit to try tripping up the government as soon as Parliament convenes.

Legislative List Heavy

But government members are optimistic, because they believe the opposition has no desire to precipitate another election.

The building, bespectacled MP from Ottawa West is considered to be one of the best government House leaders ever.

He received a baptism of fire, because he was appointed to the onerous job in October, 1961, just when the longest and most bitter parliamentary session in Canadian history was getting well underway.

Big car ride. The bigger a car, the better it rides. Dodge is big. Dodge stays flat and steady through turns due to its Wide Stance wheel tread—over five feet wide. Dodge always rides smooth and level due to its long 121-inch wheelbase. This is inches longer than the so-called standard cars. Yet Dodge is priced right with them—right in the popular-price field. Don't settle for the merely standard. Don't settle for less than a Dodge.

Big car luxury. Dodge luxury is lots of things. It's the comfort of extra stretch-out room and the ride only a big car can give. It's a private kind of quietness where the outside world stays outside. It's the rich beauty of fine fabrics and glove-soft vinyls. Most of all, Dodge luxury is a special feeling of pride. Dodge looks like a... Dodge. Not like a "me-too" version of another make or a smaller model parked down the block.

Plus the best warranty in the business. Dodge gives you a lot more protection for your money. Dodge protects your investment with a 5-year or 50,000-mile power train warranty. It covers full parts and labour for defects in materials or workmanship.

Big car features. Dodge has big helpings of those extra things that can make driving truly pleasurable. For example: you can virtually custom-design your own seating position with a six-way seat and an optional Tilt-Telescopic steering wheel. With Dodge's huge trunk you'll never again have to juggle luggage like a jigsaw puzzle. Then there are little things like two-position door checks, new safety door handles and on, and on.

Big car performance. Today, everybody talks about big engines. We've got one in the stable, too. A 440 cubic inch V8 scorchers. But performance is more than engines. It's a choice of transmissions to get the most out of that power. (We've got three of the best including a Torqueflite automatic that's smooth as butter.) It's also handling. (We've got the same kind of torsion bar suspension you'll find on $15,000 sports cars.)

This warranty says more about the quality of Dodge than thousands of claims ever could. It is more than just talk. It is black and white proof of dependability.

If you want a lot more car for your money, come on over to Dodge. And get the big bonus of a 5-year or 50,000-mile power train warranty. Makes a lot of sense. See your Dodge Dealer soon. He'll make a lot of sense, too.

Commission Aide Becomes Member

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Lacoste, co-secretary of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, was named a member of the commission Wednesday to replace Jean Marchand.

Mr. Lacoste, 42, is a Montreal lawyer, part-time lecturer at the University of Montreal and a writer on education problems.

Three-Week Blitz To Wind Up Hearings

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, out of the public eye since June, launches a three week blitz Monday to hear 200 briefs in six cities.

The commission will split up to hold simultaneous public hearings in Montreal and Toronto next week and in Regina and Edmonton the following week.

Hearings will follow in Winnipeg Dec. 9-10 and in Ottawa Dec. 13-16, winding up the public phase of the massive inquiry.

100 BRIEFS

Next year the 10 commissioners will analyze the 400 highly-opinionated briefs they have received in all, plus the research reports of social scientists, and begin drafting their final report.

The commission's first report, published Feb. 25, said French-English tensions had reached a critical stage but did not make any recommendations.

The final report is not expected for at least another year and the proposed solutions likely will be based more on the commission's vast, confidential research program than on emotional briefs from pressure groups.

A team headed by co-chairman Andre Laurendeau, editor-in-chief of Montreal Le Devoir, will sit in Montreal Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to question spokesmen for 29 organizations about their briefs.

Another team led by co-chairman Davidson Dunton, president of Ottawa's Carleton University, will open a four-day hearing Tuesday night in Toronto, where 45 groups and individuals will submit briefs.

The Laurendeau team moves to Edmonton Dec. 6-7 while the Dunton team sits in Regina Dec. 6.

WIDE VARIETY

Briefs will be submitted by such national organizations as the Canadian Labor Congress and National Farmers Union and a wide variety of cultural and business groups.

These range from separatist groups in Montreal to the Saskatchewan grand lodge of the Loyal Orange Lodge Association.

Arson Suspected

Flash Fire Kills Three

LAKEWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — A flash fire—possibly the work of an arsonist—wrecked a three-story dormitory filled with sleeping hotel employees in this winter seashore resort early Thursday, killing three persons trapped on the top floor. Two other persons were missing.

About three minutes before the alarm at the brick and stucco dormitory was sounded, police in a patrol car passed the building and saw nothing unusual.

But within minutes, flames that erupted around couches in the first floor lobby near the stairway shot upward through the building.

But within minutes, flames that erupted around couches in the first floor lobby near the stairway shot upward through the building.

More than 150 firemen responded to the general alarm. Many of the occupants were carried out by firemen and police, while others jumped to safety from window ledges and rooftops.

'STILL IN THERE'

Detective Lt. Stephen Beltrand said several of the rescued occupants told police no one was on the third floor. It wasn't until two hours later that Bridget Smyth, the hotel housekeeper who was working in another building when the fire broke out, told police that several persons were sleeping in rooms on the top floor.

"They're still in there," she screamed hysterically. "They're still in there."

The dormitory had been filled with extra employees hired for the Thanksgiving Day holiday to work at the hotel a block away.

Canadians Share Bridge Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Californians lead after the second qualifying round at the American Contract Bridge League's national open team match.

In first place after the second qualifying round Wednesday night was a California team composed of Edwin Kantar, Los Angeles; Marshall Miles, San Bernardino; Michael Lawrence, Berkeley; and Lew Stanby, Oakland.

Tied for second were two teams. One was composed of Philip Feldesman and Michael Engel, both of New York; Ira Rubin, Paramus, N.J.; and Richard Freeman, Atlanta. The other team, all Canadians, were P. Hagen, J. Donaldson and Ron Borg, all of Vancouver, and B. Crapko of Richmond.

Cuban Exodus 'Normal'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Americo Cruz, Cuba's ambassador to Canada, says there is nothing startling about the present exodus of Cubans to the United States.

He told a meeting sponsored by the Canadian-Cuban Friendship Society that people leaving a country is nothing new in history.

"Don't get so excited about it. During the American Revolution more than 100,000 people moved to Canada."

Dr. Cruz said many of those leaving Cuba would have moved to the U.S. anyway had relations between the two countries been normal.

Another Bank Sets Records

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Another Canadian chartered bank has joined the list of those which have done record business in 1965.
The Bank of Montreal reports that it made record net profits, and that its assets, loans, and deposits all reached new peaks in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31.

Net earnings were $18,730,333 ($3.08) or a gain of 4.9 per cent over $17,851,983 ($2.94) in the previous year.

Assets were up $329,000,000 at $4,907,000,000 and loans topped the three billion dollar mark for the first time at $3,168,000,000 up $439,000,000. Total deposits at $4,605,000,000 were up $265,000,000 and personal savings at $2,167,000,000, up by $137,000,000.

TEXAS GULF IN B.C.
United States companies paid the highest prices for B.C. oil and gas leases at the government's sale in Victoria this week.

While the major Canadian companies remained comparatively aloof, prices totalling $3,629,777 were obtained.

The highest price was paid by Texas Gulf Sulphur for a permit in the Pine Pass area southwest of Port St. John.

Texas Gulf bid $335,804, and according to Mines Minister Broyles, the U.S. company was apparently attracted by the high sulphur content in two successful wells already drilled in the area.

Texas Gulf is the company which set off the great Timmins mining boom of 1963 when it discovered a rich copper-lead-zinc ore deposit in the Ontario mining district of Timmins.

Union Texas of Canada Ltd. paid $152,000 for $275.24 an acre for a lease in the Yo Yo area 40 miles east of Fort Nelson. It was the highest per-acre deal of the sale. Next sale will be in February.

BANFF SELLS ABROAD
Banff Oil Ltd., the company which was associated in the first oil strike made in the Rainbow Lake area of north-western Alberta, has sold 270,000 of its unissued treasury shares for $7.30 each.

The shares have been placed in European hands by Paribas Corporation of New York.

The proceeds will be used by Banff for the development of its Rainbow Lake properties.

OFFERED AT DISCOUNT
A discount bond carrying a 6 1/2 per cent interest rate is being marketed by Industrial Acceptance Corporation.

The issue of $10,000,000 6 1/2 per cent bonds maturing in 1983 is being offered at 98 to yield 6.90 per cent.

EXPENSES HEAVY
Heavy expenses incurred in the opening of new stores affected the net earnings of Shop and Save in the 23 weeks period ended Oct. 9.

Reported net earnings for the period were $253,877 (24 cents) against $391,281 (37 cents) in the corresponding period of 1964.

Sales, however, were up at $28,904,894 from $25,833,096 and the lower profit is explained by the $141,855 expenses on new store opening against only $29,205 a year ago.

INCO TAKES LOOK
Canadian Nickel Co. Ltd., a subsidiary of International Nickel of Canada, has agreed to contribute $60,000 towards the cost of an exploration program at Temont Mines Ltd.'s Bartlett, Ont. property.

In return, Canadian Nickel will receive a 60-day period in which to examine the property and correlate engineering data. It will then have the option to continue work on the property over a further two years on the basis of 35 per cent interest.

Northern Ontario Natural Gas has obtained about 60 per cent of the stock of Greater Winnipeg Gas under the terms of its recent offer. It is reported by the company.

Bankruptcies Face Check

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal government will soon step up its drive against fraudulent bankruptcies by the appointment of special investigators in Toronto and Montreal.

Bankruptcy superintendent Roger Tasse has already interviewed several men—some with RCMP and department of national revenue experience—for the two posts.

The investigators will have the power to make spot checks on records and inventories prepared by trustees and, if necessary, seize files.

SPOT CHECKS
"They will be employed mainly as investigators. They may have police backgrounds and they will need some basic accounting experience," Mr. Tasse said Thursday.

He said the investigators will likely concentrate on inventories prepared by court-appointed trustees in bankruptcies.

"They will make spot checks in large bankruptcies to ensure the inventories are rightly valued," Mr. Tasse said.

He said the investigators will enable his department to act "more swiftly" on complaints of irregularities. They will have power to investigate trustees' bank accounts.

6,000 IN 1964
He said the appointments reflected the need for more intensive investigation of bankruptcies in the large centres.

Last year there were about 6,000 bankruptcies in Canada, about 2,000 of which were in Montreal and 1,500 in Toronto.

"For the trustees with nothing to hide, and that is the great majority, this will be no problem. For the others it will be different," Mr. Tasse said.

JUST ONE STEP
The appointment of the two investigators is just one of a number of steps being taken by the federal justice department to crack down on bankruptcy rackets.

The whole Bankruptcy Act is under complete review and amendments are expected to be introduced during the coming session.

Pressure has been building for the amendments for some years. The Canadian Association of Chartered Accountants advocated great tightening up of bankruptcy proceedings in 1963.

BLAME EXCHANGED
The federal government has maintained that the blame for the rackets lies with the provinces which have been lax in their responsibility of administering the Criminal Code in fraud cases.

In September Quebec Revenue Minister Eric Kierans accused the federal justice department of negligence and indifference in its administration of the Bankruptcy Act.

He said his government had lost about $1,500,000 a year in revenue from bankruptcies from 1960 to 1964.

Control Approved

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Management of Atlantic Acceptance Corporation Ltd., which went into receivership in June in a $135,000,000 financial debacle affecting business interests in the United States and Canada, was granted General Acceptance Corporation Wednesday.

A Supreme Court of Ontario order, signed by Mr. Justice

W. D. Parker after a four-hour court hearing at Windsor, approved an application by GAC to take over management of Atlantic relating to the receivables and acquisition of new sales finance and personal loan paper.

GAC will act on behalf of Montreal Trust Co., the receiver and manager of Atlantic. Since July, GAC has been consultant to Montreal Trust on Atlantic affairs. GAC also has submitted an offer to purchase Atlantic assets and this has had court approval, now under appeal.

The effect of the court order here is to turn over direct management of Atlantic to GAC which will supervise, manage and operate its affairs.

She bought her RCA Victor 19" portable because she has more fun with a set that weighs less than her full scrub bucket. We have 27 other models that are just as much fun. MacMillans Hunt For B.C. Mine

VANCOUVER (CP)—George and Viola MacMillan, president and promoter of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd., said here Thursday they are looking for a mine in British Columbia.

"Right now, we need a mine more than ever," said Mrs. MacMillan. She and her husband were charged with fraud last Oct. 7 in connection with the boom-bust cycle of shares of Windfall on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Mrs. MacMillan said she still has interests in the Slocan area.

LeMay Claims Russia A Dangerous Partner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former commander of the Strategic Air Command and retired air force chief of staff, said Thursday it would be dangerous for the United States to pool knowledge with Soviet Union in a joint space program.

In his book, Mission with LeMay, published by Doubleday & Co. Inc., the general said space was one of the few dangers confronting man.

He said, "We might even be threatened not merely with new space-born weapons, but also with an entire unperceived region of additional possibilities of aggression."

LeMay quoted a telegram of congratulations, sent to the Vostok cosmonauts by Soviet defence minister Malinovsky: "Let our foes know what technology and what militance are in the possession of Soviet power." Those implications were obvious, LeMay said.

The general said the scientific exploration of space was the function of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration while military capabilities in space came under the department of defence.

LeMay said Inter-Continental Ballistics Missiles were significant threats to the United States. In order to get a defensive system against an aggressor's missiles and learn the in-flight survivability of American missiles, space orbiting or rendezvous operations were necessary.

Fishermen Vote Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's 700 herring fishermen will vote Friday on a third offer by the Fisheries Association of B.C.—with the executive recommending rejection.

The association has offered to pay herring fishermen $17 a ton, $1 more than its original offer but still 60 cents shy of the union demand. The union also wants an extra 33 cents a ton for pensions. The union has been on strike since Nov. 1.

Child Hunt Looks West

NEW YORK (UPI) — A U.S. nationwide search for a fashion model suspected of taking her seven-year-old daughter from the States Island home of her ex-husband centred on the Los Angeles area Thursday.

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., police said the model's father, Dr. Stanley Juba, said his wife flew to Los Angeles Wednesday to join her daughter, Devina Horan, mother of the missing child.

The father had been given full custody of the child.

Equality with Janitors Legion's Pension Goal

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Royal Canadian Legion Thursday asked Prime Minister Pearson to pay veterans' pensions equal to the salaries the government pays its cleaning staff.

In a brief submitted to the prime minister on the occasion of the Legion's 40th anniversary commemoration, the veterans' organization requested an increase of $1,480, to maintain "the relative position of the pensioner in society."

FAR BEHIND
The brief, presented by Legion president F. T. O'Brecht, pointed out the average janitor employed by the government earns $3,880 annually, but the single veterans' pension is only $2,400 a year.

When veterans' pensions were established in 1920, the brief said, single veterans pensions were equated with the salary paid to cleaning help—$900 a year.

But since that time, janitors' salaries have risen 331 per cent, while pensions have only increased 166 per cent.

The Legion went on to say a married pensioner with two children receives a pension of $3,792, while a postal clerk's salary is $5,215 a year.

Duty-Book Subject Of Tug-of-War

Bert G. Howard, 151 Battleford, was fined $75 Thursday when found guilty of dangerous driving after a trial enlivened by a determined tussle between lawyer Dermot Owen-Flood and a police witness over the policeman's notebook.

Constable Edward James, testifying for the Crown, at one point referred to his notebook to "refresh his memory" of a witness' name.

Mr. Owen-Flood, defending Howard, asked to see the page in the book containing the name of the witness. The policeman held up the book, open at the appropriate page.

DOUBLE GRIP

"My eyes are a little myopic," said Mr. Owen-Flood, taking a firm grip on the book.

Constable James held on, and the two looked sharply at each other over the book.

"This is my duty book," said the policeman. "There is a lot of information in it and you aren't entitled to see it."

"I just want to see that one page," said the lawyer, with a tact smile and a firm grip. Magistrate J. A. Byers finally ruled the book be released by the policeman so the lawyer could hold it alone while looking at the page.

Mr. Owen-Flood examined the page very closely and at some length. "Everybody can see I'm not changing it," he said.

BOOK RETURNED

"I see that that is the name of the witness," he concluded finally, continuing his minute scrutiny of the page.

"That's what I told you in the first place," said the police witness.

As Mr. Owen-Flood continued to examine the pocket-size page, Magistrate Byers broke in: "I hate to be suspicious, but I'd say you're reading the whole thing."

The counsellor handed the book back.

SLOW 'CHASE'

Police testified that Howard, during the course of a low-speed, 18-to-20 block "chase," caused a couple of pedestrians to jump out of his way, once nearly had an accident, and once crossed the centre line while passing a parked car.

Although travelling at low speed, police said, Howard "squealed his tires" and made them smoke every time he turned a corner.

Howard said he was driving around the downtown area looking for a place to park and denied there had been any near-misses or incidents.

Floyd I. Ide, 1660 Mortimer, was sentenced to four months in jail after he pleaded guilty to his third impaired driving charge.

Gandhi Kin Placed Under Ban

DURBAN (AP) — The South African government Wednesday banned the Indian husband of Mohandas Gandhi's granddaughter for five years under the suppression of communism laws.

The action against Nema Ramgobin, 33, a Durban insurance agent, restricts his movements and prevents him from attending political meetings and other gatherings.

SET UP CLINIC

Ramgobin was graduated last year from Natal University where he was president of the non-white section of the Students' Representative Council.

Four years ago he helped establish the Gandhi Clinic, which treats more than 1,000 patients a month. Author Alan Paton, chairman of the trust which administers the clinic, said he thought Ramgobin had been banned because of his student political activities.

Kidnap Trial Set for May

TACOMA (AP) — Trial of the three men accused of kidnapping Charles H. Hyde for $45,000 ransom a week ago probably will be held next May or June, prosecutor John McCutcheon said Thursday. Tifford Baker, 34, James Evans 31, and Dean Bromley 20, all of Tacoma, have been charged with first degree kidnapping in connection with the abduction in which the 13-year-old boy was returned to his parents nine hours after he was kidnapped on his way to school.

An Unusual Winter for Palm Springs

Downpours in California Ease Off to Showers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Scattered showers—but with some variable sunshine—continued to wet Southern California Thursday where the current storm has claimed at least 11 lives.

The latest death was reported from Pico Rivera, northeast of here, where Jackie R. Shepherd, 23, an armored car employee, drowned when his station wagon plunged off a highway into the rain-swollen Rio Hondo.

Although he was on duty at the time, the station wagon was not carrying money or valuables.

Five of the other deaths occurred in the Mexican border city of Tijuana.

The other five who died in this country drowned in Riverside or San Bernardino counties, among the hardest hit areas by the storm. One was an 18-month-old boy who fell into a rain-filled excavation ditch. The others were motorists.

The latest forecast was for scattered showers with a few thundershowers, mostly near the mountains.

Two stricken flood regions already have been declared disaster areas. This would allow immediate state aid to restore an estimated $1,000,000 in damaged public facilities.

The small business administration had earlier declared the Simi Valley in Ventura County a disaster area, making property owners eligible for low-interest loans for repairs.

By midday the rainfall total at Los Angeles was 11.49 inches, compared with a normal of 1.50 inches.

Power Failure Traps Woman

A Saanich woman employee was trapped in a self-service elevator in the new municipal hall Wednesday as a result of a power failure.

Betty Fullerton, assistant municipal planner, was alone in the elevator when it stopped between floors as the power went off in the building at 4:06 p.m.

LIKE YO-YO

When the lights blinked on, Miss Fullerton would push a button on the control panel in hopes the machine would make its way to a floor level and she could get out.

With the power going on and off, and her punching buttons at random, the elevator went up and down, yo-yo fashion.

She was released unharmed and undaunted from the machine when the power was restored at 4:28 p.m.

LETTER HALTED

Another inconvenience was caused in the planning department by the blackout. Stenographer Ilene Grommers' electric typewriter stopped in the middle of an important letter.

She finished the letter on a manual typewriter by flashlight. According to a B.C. Hydro spokesman, the failure was caused when the building's main circuit-breaker opened up.

'Spring Chickens' Giving Way To Mature Women

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Are spring chickens on the way out? Yes, says Martha Hyer.

According to the blonde beauty, American men are finally catching up to Europeans in their taste for mature women. The young girl as a sex image is losing ground to her older sister.

"Women, not girls, are the style now," said Martha during a noontime interview. "I've certainly found it true in my case."

"I've just returned from making a movie in Italy where people think our movies and television shows are oriented for teen-age audiences. I tried to convince them otherwise."

"I was never a really successful actress until I matured. Now that I'm over 30 I'm playing more parts than ever — five movies in the past year and another one coming up next month."

Martha's busy schedule is enough for her that the male libido is indeed swinging away from youthful cuties to sophisticated females.

And she has a point. Audrey Hepburn, Liz Taylor, Shirley MacLaine, Doris Day and most of the other top actresses have long since departed their 20s.

"Besides, there are more men than boys in this country, and when they go to a movie they like to see someone they can picture as a date for themselves, not as a partner for one of their young sons."

Montreal's Mayor

Expo Emissary On Way Here

Another high-ranking emissary from Quebec is headed Victoria way next week.

Unlike Premier Lesage, however, Jean Drapeau is not coming to preach brotherhood and understanding.

The colorful mayor of Montreal will be in the guise of a travelling salesman for his city's big celebration party, Expo 67.

While in Victoria next Wednesday on a one-day visit, Mayor Drapeau will leave his card with Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, Mayor Wilson, local industrialists and members of the press.

His first stop will be City Hall at 9 a.m. He goes to Government House at 10:15 and attends an Empress press conference.

A civic luncheon will be held in his honor at the Empress at 12:30.

Mayor Drapeau is to make a similar two-day visit to Vancouver.

New Family Sports Club In Works

BEHIND THE GLASS

By Jim Tang

THERE'S QUANTITY: It's playoff time again in curling and judging from the number of entries, it's going to be a wide-open race in the Victoria area. At least 29 men's and 21 ladies' rinks have entered the first level of competition leading to the Canadian finals in the three Victoria clubs. There is a sign of healthy interest but it could also be, particularly as regards the men, that there isn't a really standout quartet assembled. One would have to say that there is a better chance for a distaff rink to represent the city in the national finals.

Largest entry is at the Victoria Curling Club, where 13 men's rinks will start a double-knockout competition to decide which two rinks will carry on to the south Island final against two winners from Allan's Esquimalt and Duncan.

Entered at Victoria are Ken Sturrock, Ralph Schmidt, Steve Hayhurst, Keith Dagg, Don Moss, Harry Gulka, Al Smith, Bud Taylor, Elmer Hoffman, Maurice Teller, O. J. Powell, Larry Marshall and Wes Young.

Picking a winner here would require some kind of divine knowledge, particularly since some of the skips are not yet certain of their rink personnel. In any event, talent has been spread so thin that anything could happen.

Last word from Esquimalt shows eight rinks competing in Consols playdowns, which start on Dec. 4. Skips entered are Lyle Gordon, Gordon Horney, Wally Kowalski, Jack Moir, Bob Stewart, Gordon Carmichael, Andy Robb and Jim Sawyer.

Another eight rinks are entered at Allan's, where play starts on Dec. 11—Jim Gallagher, J. Chisholm, Dave Haywood, Ed Taylor, Sam Snobelen, Ray Paine, Einar Hemstedt and Roy Allan.

The south Island final, which will produce four Island finalists to compete against a similar number from the north end of the Island, is scheduled at Esquimalt on Dec. 26 and the Island final is also at Esquimalt on Jan. 15 and 16.

ALSO HERE: Victoria clubs will also host the Island and south Island ladies' finals, the former at Esquimalt Jan. 15 and 16 and the latter at Allan's Jan. 8 and 9.

Both Victoria and Esquimalt will have two rinks in the south Island final, one each from the evening and afternoon curlers. There are also five entries from the afternoon curlers at Esquimalt, two entries from the evening group and four at Allan's.

It would take a much bolder person than this one to hazard a definite guess but, it seems, the skip to beat again is Flora Martin.

GIVE UP SLOGAN: No longer can the Alberni Valley Curling Club claim that it puts on "The biggest little bonspiel in B.C." It may now have to read, "The most popular bonspiel in B.C."

At first limited to 40 rinks in the old army hut and then to 48 when the new six-sheeter was built, the AVCC bonspiel this time around will have a 64-rink limit and 12 sheets of ice available.

A second set of rocks is on hand and six sheets will be laid out in the adjacent arena. But this has hardly solved the AVCC problem. The bonspiel is not until Feb. 17 and the club already has 25 out-of-town entries. It will, of course, be another sell-out and if you don't get your entry in about immediately you'll be on a waiting list.

The format will be the same—six events headed by the open Colonist and Alberni Hardware events, each with a secondary and tertiary event. Rink visiting rinks will be required to play by the evening of Thursday, Feb. 17.

AN OLD STORY: Proof that Duncan's Glen Harper can usually come up with the big shot was furnished again in the "cash" bonspiel at Nanaimo over the weekend which drew some of the Island's toughest Consols collections.

Harper and ex-Victorian Gary Leibel, now managing the Qualicum Club, made their way to the final. Harper won it 10-7, with the turning point coming midway through the game when he made a sparkling in-wick to dislodge Leibel's counter and end up counting four.

Among those entered were Jim Marasco of Port Alberni, Dave Patterson of Comox, Fred Duncan of Duncan, Eric Kakoske of Campbell River and the cream of the Nanaimo curling crop.

EXTRA END: A couple of newcomers are going to be heard from in Island curling, this season or next. At Nanaimo, Lou Martin, a former chairman of Lethbridge's Rainbow Bonspiel, is proving a fine addition to the club as well as a Consols possibility. In Victoria, Ex-Edmontonian Maurice Teller is winning more than his share of games in the club draws.

North Island Consols playdowns will be at the Alberni Valley club on Jan. 18 and 19. If you enter too late to make the Alberni Valley men's bonspiel there's always the AVCC mixed, starting March 25 for 48 rinks which must include distaff curlers at lead and third.

Honors for the most-exceptional shot of the season must go to a lady curler, who shall, for obvious reasons, remain unnamed. Playing in the Sunday Commercial League at the Victoria Curling Club she was in the enviable position of being four up on the home end and counting three when she went down to deliver her rock. When everything had finally come to a stop, she had made a triple and the opposition was counting the five they needed to win the game. It outdid a game in the afternoon ladies' league in which one rink was six down coming home and didn't have a rock in the house with four left to come. The result—a tie.

Reversal of a decision made earlier this month has made possible the construction of Victoria's first family club.

At an extraordinary meeting on Wednesday night, 240 members of the Victoria Racquet Club voted 74 per cent in favor of the sale of present club property on Fort Street and relocating club facilities on a Ruby Road site near Gordon Head Road.

The sale of present club property failed to get the necessary two-thirds majority at a meeting on Nov. 3. A petition with the required number of signatures forced another meeting and brought the largest turnout in club history.

Result of the second meeting made club-president Andy Pitkethly one of the happier citizens in these parts.

"I am most gratified," he said, "My work has all been in the interests of this development. The city is big enough for a club like this and it is something we need."

Pitkethly had a special word for his board of directors.

"They did a wonderful job and I'd like to thank them for it."

ALL NEW
Plans are still in the formative stage but they call for brand new facilities which will make provision for tennis, badminton, squash and swimming on the Ruby Road property on which the club has an option.

Total cost, including $50,000 for the property, is being planned at $345,000. This includes $225,000 for buildings to house five badminton and two squash courts, a gallery, locker rooms, lounge bar and offices, $21,000 for eight grass and six hard tennis courts, $15,000 for a swimming pool, $14,000 to fence and landscape the property and provide parking facilities and $20,000 for furnishings.

ICE LATER
There are no immediate plans for curling and skating facilities but they would seem to be a distinct possibility for the future, perhaps even in the near future, if membership growth is encouraging.

The club expects to have a net cash amount of $260,000 after the sale of the Fort Street property and plans to raise the necessary additional amount either by mortgage or a combination of a mortgage and membership debentures.

PAST START
Work on the relocation will get underway immediately. Committees will be struck to take care of the finalizing of the property sale and the planning for new construction.

Turkey Games Tied

DETROIT (AP)—Johnny Unitas threw three touchdowns passes—two of them to John Mackey in the fourth quarter—and led the Baltimore Colts to a 24-21 National Football League tie with an inspired Detroit Lions team Thursday, the U.S. Thanksgiving Day.

The Lions jumped to a 21-10 halftime lead on a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter by Amos Marsh. One was on a 62-yard run.

Wayne Walker missed a 50-yard field goal try in the waning seconds of the game.

The Colts, who entered the game with an eight-game winning streak, scored the first time they had the ball when Unitas directed a 74-yard drive.

Unitas passed the final five yards to Alex Hawkins.

But the Lions thwarted the Colts from then until the final quarter when Unitas passed 51 yards to Mackey in the first minute of play, then clicked with him for the tying marker from the 15 with 1:51 remaining.

Pass interceptions by Bruce Miker and Dick Lebeau set up the Lions' first two touchdowns.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Pete Gogolak kicked a 22-yard field goal with six seconds to play Thursday, giving Buffalo Bills a 20-20 tie with San Diego Chargers in an American Football League game.

Rangers Fined $1,800 For Brawl with Fans

MONTREAL (CP)—Emile Francis, peppery New York Rangers' general manager, and 12 of his players are $1,800 lighter in their pockets today.

Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, Thursday fined Francis $250 and a dozen of his athletes a total of $1,500 for their part in the fracas that erupted during the third period of the Detroit Red Wings-New York game in Madison Square Gardens Sunday night.

Campbell's assessment was the biggest mass fining in the NHL since Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks were clipped a total of $4,775 for a brawl they staged in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens two years ago.

The New York fireworks exploded after the Rangers and their coach Red Sullivan had vehemently protested to goal judge Arthur Reichert that a Detroit shot had not crossed the goal line.

After play resumed, Francis left his seat in the stands and approached the goal judge to further dispute his call. The pair exchanged angry words and then a unidentified fan joined the hassle.

TRADED PUNCHES
Suddenly the fan and Francis began throwing punches and the crowd closed in around the group.

Several Ranger players then entered the stands by scaling a 10-foot glass-and-wood barrier separating the spectators from the playing surface. Others entered the seats through an end-zone gate.

It took a force of arena police five minutes to separate the players from the milling fans, and Francis received a two-stitch cut over his left eye during the melee.

NOT ATTACKED
The goal judge was not attacked by anyone and he took up his regular duties as soon as the game was resumed. The Detroit players were not involved.

In assessing the fines, Campbell said the facts concerning what happened are not in dispute.

"The principal problem has been to identify the individual players, who took part in the melee, and the degree of their participation in the episode," Campbell said.

The league president received verified reports from his game officials and statements from individual players, before levying the fines.

STAYED CLEAR
He fined five of the six players on the ice at the time $100 each. Only Ed Giacomin, Rangers' netminder, did not participate.

An additional seven players were fined $150 each by the league president—$100 of which is for invading the spectators' seating area—and the additional $30 for leaving the players' bench to engage in a fight.

Fined $100 were defencemen Harry Howell and Arnie Brown and forwards Vic Hadfield, Earl Ingarfield, and John McKenzie who were on the ice when the flare-up occurred.

Players nicked for $150 are alternate netminder Don Simmons, defencemen Mike McMahon and Wayne Hillman, forwards Larry Meekey, Rod Seiling, Gary Peters and Lou Angotti.

Bruins Beat Rangers, 6-2; Hawks Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Woytowich and Don Awrey, the only healthy members of Boston's regular defence corps, scored second-period goals Thursday night to help the Bruins to a 6-2 National Hockey League victory over New York Rangers.

Meanwhile in Chicago, the Black Hawks again moved into a tie for first place by whipping Detroit Red Wings 3-1.

At Boston, Woytowich broke a 2-2 tie early in the second period with his first goal of the season, a long, screened shot from the blue line.

Midway through the session Awrey, normally the Bruins' fifth defenceman, scored his first goal with a shot from the blue line while the Rangers were short-handed.

Woytowich and Awrey teamed as a defence pair. Barry Ashbee, summoned from Hershey of the American League, and Ed Westfall, normally a right winger, formed another pairing.

Defencemen Ted Green and Al Langlois were sidelined with injuries. Veteran Leo Boivin sat on the bench with a bruised knee after the first period.

AVENGED DEFEAT

The Bruins, who had scored as many as three goals only twice in 12 previous starts, avenged a 4-1 defeat by the Rangers in New York Wednesday.

Reggie Fleming got the first of his two goals midway in the first period. Linemate Tom Williams connected for his fifth of the year 47 seconds later.

THIRD SELL-OUT

A crowd of 13,909, the third straight sellout at the Boston Garden, gave the Bruins a standing ovation for the final minute of the game.

In the game at Chicago, the Hawks, by beating the Wings for the fourth time in a row, pulled even with Montreal Canadiens, who were idle.

Goalkeeper Glen Hall started for the Hawks, turning back 38 Detroit shots, several from almost point-blank range.

Stan Mikita, last season's scoring champion, paced Chicago's third-period, three-goal scoring ber. He took the rebound of Ken Wharram's shot and eased the puck between Wing goalie Hank Bassen's pad and the post for his seventh tally of the season.

THE WINNER

Eric Nesterenko scored the winner at 10:06 when he moved through the entire Detroit team to beat Bassen.

Andy Bathgate got Detroit back into the contest two minutes later by converting Don McKenney's pass from the boards. Mikita sewed up the game with 14 seconds left by shooting the puck into an empty Detroit cage. Bassen having been removed in favor of an extra offensive player.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

This should be the best weekend of the season for deer hunters. Snow has fallen in most of the higher spots and the deer will have been forced down into the lower areas where hunters can more easily reach them.

It is also the last weekend of the season for deer hunters and does, fawns and bucks are all legal game. Blue grouse are in season until Dec. 12 and willows until Jan. 2. Pheasants go out this weekend.

A post mortem on this year's hunting season is expected at the fish and game club meeting Dec. 20. At that time game biologists and frustrated hunters will battle it out, almost toe to toe, on the question of deer populations and the advisability of antlerless seasons.

As far as freshwater fishing is concerned it might be a good idea to go hunting this weekend. There are some trout, some salmon and maybe a steelhead to be taken in the rivers, but it is a sort of in-between season until the steelhead start, which is anytime between now and the middle of December.

Lakes are dropping off, but Pete Edwards reports some fair fishing in Cowichan Lake trolling with small spoons off the creek mouths and south of the village.

The odd steelhead is being taken from the Ash River. Denes Szotak and John Plawes have a word of warning to camper van users. Watch out for high water on the bars of the San Juan. They camped there last weekend on the bar at the crossover. Overnight the water came up and left them stranded. Eventually it reached the dashboard of their van and they had to run for it. In the end they had to return to Victoria for a second truck and get a line on the camper van and tow it out.

Cutthroat fishing is still worth a try in all estuaries. Two and three-pound jack coho are being taken in the Lower reaches of Cowichan River, but a $6 Indian permit is required to go on Indian lands, which is too steep.

We used to promote the $2 permits, but the Indians have got just too greedy, and the same waters can be fished by boat with no permit.

For those who don't mind a little chilly weather now is the time for some of the hottest spring salmon fishing of the year.

Secretary Island has been producing well and so has Pedder Bay. Off the Esquimalt Lagoon around the navy marker buoys and on to Macaulay Point and Brodie Ledge have been hot spots.

Fishing is still exceptionally good at Oak Bay with Discovery Light, Goat Island and Trial Island the hot spots. The springs are mostly in the five to 12-pound class, but there have been some as heavy as 28 pounds. Herring strip and minnow and about 12 ounces of weight in the morning has been a good combination.

Jim Gilbert reports so many grise in Saanich Inlet it is hard to keep them off the lines. Jacks springs are in Tod Inlet, but the bigger springs seem to have moved on. May Hall reports plenty of winter springs and grise in Finlayson Arm waters. Small spoons and Strip-Tessers are working well.

Springs and grise are being taken at Maple Bay and under the power line in Sanson Narrows.

There has been some pretty good winter spring fishing for salmon up to 16 pounds off Northwest Bay. Salmon are being taken off the mouth of Nanaimo River.

More Golf Gold

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans are in the making for a new $250,000 pro golf tournament — the world's richest — in the eastern U.S.

"We have the sponsors and dates from the (U.S.) PGA," said Bill Jennings, president of New York Rangers and general chairman of the Thunderbird tournament.

The move depends on the disposition of the $100,000 Thunderbird tournament, held the last three years at the Westchester Country Club in Westchester, N.Y.

Sponsors of the event are considering a move back to New Jersey, where the tournament was held the first year at Montclair.

PERFECT SITE

"The Westchester Country Club is the perfect site for a big pro tournament," Jennings said.

"If the Thunderbird sponsors decide to move, then we'll get another tournament for Westchester."

"I have talked to sponsors. They are ready to commit themselves to a three-year contract and we possibly could make it five. They want to make it the richest tournament in the world — a quarter of a million dollars."

The richest tournament at present is the Carling World, offering $200,000 in prize money. Dates already have been awarded for the Thunderbird. They are Aug. 11-14.

Two Ex-Tiger-Cats Thirst for Revenge

TORONTO (UPI)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, a football team reputed to have great pride, would like nothing better than to beat the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Saturday's Grey Cup. But two of the Bombers have added incentive to thump the Ti-Cats.

Nielsen

Now

No. 28

TORONTO (CP)—Fans looking for sweater No. 21 in a bid to spot Ken Nielsen, Winnipeg Blue Bombers sensation in rookie end, in Saturday's Grey Cup game won't find it. It is gone.

A souvenir hunter made off with it after the talented 23-year-old became a football hero by catching two touchdowns passes to spark Winnipeg to a 19-12 triumph over Calgary Stampeders in the third and deciding game of the Western Conference final last Saturday.

"It was stolen out of his bag in the dressing room," said equipment manager Bob Jones.

Nielsen, obtained in a trade with Hamilton Tiger-Cats last August, will wear No. 28 Saturday.

Grey Cup Field Under Tarp As Rain Threatens Big Game

TORONTO (CP)—The rains for cloudy skies, 40-degree temperatures and said rain was likely today or Saturday.

They got the $12,000 tarpaulin down on the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium turf—just in time.

The covering was taken off Wednesday so the field of battle for Saturday's Grey Cup game could soak up sunshine and crews could touch up the markings for the big clash between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Unless there's a quick change in the weather, the field will stay under wraps until a few hours before Saturday's kickoff at 1 p.m. EST.

The weatherman has anything but optimistic. He called with 131 fans, is due at Toronto International Airport at 8 p.m. EST tonight.

The Grey Cup dinner is scheduled tonight, along with the ball at which Miss Grey Cup will be named. Final preparations were made for the Grey Cup parade starting Saturday at 9:15 a.m. EST.

The odds on the game, meanwhile, remained unchanged with Hamilton favored to win by four points. But Toronto bookies reported late Thursday a "load of money" came in on the Blue Bombers.

He said that 90 per cent of the tickets were purchased by fans in Winnipeg and must be picked up in Toronto. The club puts any unclaimed tickets on sale to the general public at the CNE Stadium box office.

The CNR Blue Bomber Special, a 17-car train which left Winnipeg Thursday night, isn't due at Union Station here until 7:30 a.m. EST Saturday. About 1,300 fans are expected to be aboard, including a trio to entertain them on the trip, the Blue Bombers band and a majorette drill corps.

Air Canada has two special flights from Winnipeg. The first was to arrive Thursday night with 139 fans aboard. Another, last place in the Western Conference to a Grey Cup berth.

Ed Ulmer, a defensive back and punter, was obtained from Ottawa Rough Riders for half-back Bob Reed.

Ulmer was the goat of the final game of the 1964 two-game total — point playoff against Hamilton so he might feel he has a score to settle with the Ti-Cats.

He started the season with the Ti-Cats but was traded to the Bombers for import end Lloyd Webb, one of the numerous athletes given a chance to replace the then-retired Hal Patterson.

Webb couldn't and is no longer with Hamilton. Miller, a rookie 25-year-old out of Ohio University, failed to crack Hamilton's veteran and feared defensive team. He lost out to Herb Patterson, a Buffalo Bill reject with more professional experience.

Miller and Nielsen are just two examples of great wheels and dealing which helped

Roman Church Plans Key Canadian Centre

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A Roman Catholic-sponsored international centre for religious education, the first of its kind in North America, will be established in London, Ont.

The announcement Wednesday from the London diocese office said the school is due to open next Sept. 17.

The new school, similar to those already established at Strasbourg, France, and at Brussels, Belgium, will be known as the Divine Word.

The school, which will have room for 100 students the first year, will be open to non-Roman Catholics. It will be affiliated with Lumen Vitae, the international institute of catechetics in Brussels.

The school's academic year will be 10 months and include courses in the Bible, liturgy, religious sociology, anthropology and religious psychology.

Requirements for entrance will be bachelor's degree or equivalent "in professional or apostolic training."

New Cabinet Not Unwrapped Until Christmas

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson will wait until the week before Christmas—and perhaps longer—before unwrapping his new cabinet and showing it to the public.

He meets his present cabinet today for the last time before taking off on a combination business and holiday trip in the Caribbean.

An aide said there was "no indication" that Mr. Pearson would make any major announcements at his press conference following the meeting.

ALL AT ONCE

He said he expected the prime minister would wait until after he returns from Trinidad and Tobago Dec. 16 before announcing his cabinet changes. He added that the prime minister would likely announce all his cabinet changes at once.

There have been reports that Mr. Pearson was under great pressure to make the announcements today so that the new ministers could take full control of their portfolios.

If he waits until his return, the new ministers will have only a month to settle into their portfolios before the session opens. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs.

Pearson will fly to Jamaica for an official three-day visit. They will be honored by acting Prime Minister Donald Sangster and government officials with a dinner.

After Jamaica, the prime minister and his wife plan a private stay for two weeks on a small Caribbean island.

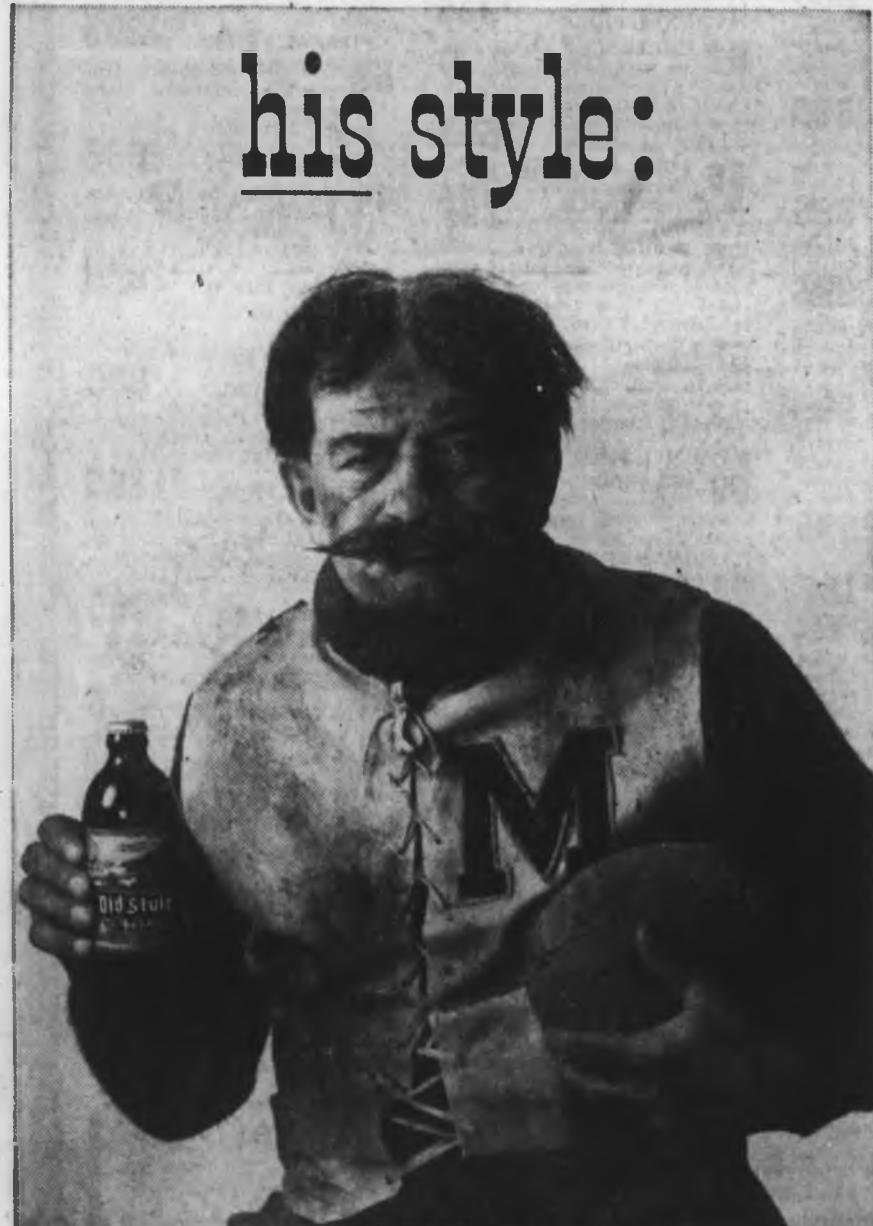

NOTABLE FIRST

They will go to the newly independent Trinidad and Tobago for a further official visit.

The visits to Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago will be the first by a Canadian prime minister since they became independent members of the Commonwealth.

Bank Robbery Victims Flushed with Success

DORSTEN, West Germany (AP)—Employees of a local bank were able to sound the alarm from a toilet in which they were locked by robbers Thursday.

After the bank was robbed exactly one year ago Thursday and the employees were similarly locked in the toilet, an alarm system connected to a neighboring house was installed in the toilet at the suggestion of the police.

Last year the unknown raiders escaped with 27,000 marks ($6,750), but this year's robbers were captured after road blocks were set up, police reported. About 10,000 marks had been stolen.

Masked Man Loses Anonymity, Cash, Credit

HAD OLDESLOE, West Germany (AP) — A bricklayer asked a bank for credit last Friday and held it up on Monday, police reported Thursday.

They said the robber, Herbert Schwarz, 27, led officers after his arrest to the spot where he had hidden his 13,000-mark ($3,250) bail, in the garden of a local judge.

But when they reached it, the cache was almost bare. Schwarz told police someone else must have robbed him of all but the 150 marks that remained.

While holding up the bank, Schwarz' black face-mask fell off and a bank clerk, who recognized his prospective credit customer, was able to refer to his name and address.

Old Bird, Old Tricks

By BOB PETHICK

The best combination of circumstances to help a budding writer is the bald prairie, a little cabin and long winter nights.

It was under such conditions that James Morton, B.C.'s (and likely Canada's) senior journalist, started his career as a writer in Manitoba.

STILL WRITES

He still writes, and on his 96th birthday Monday he brought out a poem which starts, "Well, here I am at 96. The same old bird with the same old tricks. My sight is that of a midday owl. And keeps me in a twilight pool."

The words of the poem may be true, but Mr. Morton is still very much with it. He likes to chat about the old days as well as the new, drinks his coffee with cream and sugar, and becomes just a little impatient when kept waiting.

EARLY MANITOBA

Like most authors he had a tendency to run to length in his first book, Polson's Probation, which deals with Manitoba in the latter 1800s.

"If I had written it now I'd take a pruning hook to it," he said.

In his varied career he has been a legislative reporter for the Vancouver World and Vancouver News Advertiser, secretary to Premiers John Oliver, Dr. J. D. MacLean and S. F. Tolmie and tried his hand at farming.

After being forced out (as secretary) by political pressure, he spent the next two years on a biography, Honest John, the biography of John Oliver, a farmer and self-educated man who rose to premier of B.C. and was Mr. Morton's boss from 1914 to 27.

NEVER FORGOT

He later went to work for the B.C. Archives and stayed there until retirement in 1938. Through the years he never forgot how to write or lost interest in writing.

And that could well be the reason for his many interesting years of life. His three published books of poems are Heresies and Other Poems, The Churchill Tree, and the most recent, After Ninety: Birthday and Other Poems of a Nonagenarian.

KEY WORD

Birthday is the key word in that title, because every year he writes a poem for his birthday. While his latest poem confesses sadness, it also creates the feeling that the author hasn't lost his sense of humor or his gratefulness for the life he has led.

Council ordered payment of the equivalent of half a mill (about $50,000) to the board as Victoria's share by terms of a long-standing agreement.

Farmers Urge Study Of Provincial Insurance

The B.C. Federation of Agriculture will ask the provincial government to study possibilities of a government-operated automobile insurance.

The suggested government study was one of the last resolutions passed during the two-day convention held at the Empress Hotel Tuesday and Wednesday.

The delegates totally agreed that adequate public liability and property damage insurance should be compulsory and should have to be obtained before car licences are issued.

More than 150 delegates representing farm organizations throughout the province attended the convention.

The convention also favored establishment of a turkey marketing board to protect prices and to stop over-production.

Directors elected were: John Kosty of Vernon; John Luthy, Oliver; A. C. Hope, Fort Langley; Len Bowtress, Enderby; Chris Winkill, Ladner; W. E. Martin, Vancouver; L. A. Currie, Cloverdale; R. C. Wilson, Saanich; John Merder, North Pine; Don Wood, North Pine; Arthur Swenson, Ladner; W. Mitchell, Saanich; Peter Kristoff, Cloverdale; John Frieson, Aldergrove; Henry Westwick, Duncan.

Films to Show Chinese Events

The Victoria Branch of the Canada-China Friendship Association will show news documentaries on the People's Republic of China at 2 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Italian Hall, 804 Kings.

The films will show the first atomic bomb explosion and other scientific, industrial and agricultural achievements of the Chinese.

DUNCAN — A home-made bomb, planted at the base of a small private dam near Bird's Eye Cove in the Maple Bay area, was taken apart by RCN explosives experts Thursday. Three residents were working at the dam, part of a private reservoir, when they found the device at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

One of the three had seen it several weeks ago without guessing the content.

They took a closer look Wednesday, then picked it up and carried it to a nearby marina.

An RCMP officer from Duncan looked at the device and obeyed RCMP policy not to move bombs.

The police called the navy, and Lieut. Don Hope and AB Rick Russell went to the marina from Victoria Thursday.

They found an L-shaped, one-inch-thick galvanized pipe, capped, complete with detonator and wire. It was filled with dynamite.

The bomb was defused and the dynamite removed. Pieces were left with Duncan RCMP, who will continue investigations.

Fund Booth Provides Last Chance

Last chance to donate to the United Appeal, still about $16,000 short of its goal of $130,310, will be afforded by the appeal's booth at Yates and Douglas, which will remain open until 5 p.m. Saturday, officials said Thursday.

Cars to Say Out

Front Door Closed On Bastion Square

Bastion Square's front door will be closed to cars after all city council decided Thursday.

Thus was resolved a controversy which has raged since aldermen indicated that they might favor an alteration in the original plan which would allow cars to use the Bastion Street block between Government and Langley.

City action, taken at the requests of merchants in and adjacent to the square who feared that their businesses might suffer if car traffic was forbidden, evoked letters of protest from several sources.

RECONSIDERED

Tenor of the protests was that the original concept of the square, with the block as a pedestrian mall, should not be tampered with.

Aldermen considered the question at a hastily called committee meeting Thursday morning and then reconsidered later in the day following a formal meeting of council.

Final decision was influenced largely by the attitude of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, which is paying 50 per cent of the cost under urban renewal provisions.

OTTAWA VIEW

Mayor Wilson talked with Ottawa after the first meeting on Thursday, and found that they hoped the project would go ahead as originally planned.

Another factor in the decision, said Mayor Wilson, reporting on the second meeting, was that there were only five parking meters in the block.

(Merchants said that the loss of the meters would have a direct bearing on their business.)

ORDERLY FLOW

"Another factor," said Mayor Wilson, "is the possibility of congestion on Langley Street, which bounds the east side of the square. Closing the Bastion Street entrance would, we felt, allow traffic to fringe the square in a more orderly manner."

Discussing the protests against closure, which came from a furniture firm in the square and an adjacent bank branch, one alderman said he thought they were made much too late.

There was plenty of opportunity in the months the square was evolving to protest, the alderman said, but nothing was heard until just before council was ready to open tenders on the project.

TWO BIDDERS

Opened last week, tenders showed that there were only two bidders for the job. Lowest was that of R. A. Hall Ltd., $176,400. This low tender was about $22,000 higher than the city's estimate for the project.

Where the extra money is coming from was not determined Thursday. It is likely that Ottawa will accept half of the increased cost.

W. E. Webb Re-Elected By Cafemen

W. E. Webb has been re-elected president of the Victoria and Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association for a fourth term.

Other officers elected were Paul Arsens and Victor Watson, vice-presidents; Richard Porter, secretary; treasurer; Dullina Guelph, secretary for the 21st year.

Directors are Stanley Booker, Theodora Booker, Mrs. Ted Brand, Steve Chan, Thomas Hannah, Merl Krusel, Kenneth MacLean, Lawrence Mudryk, William Prior, U. Schadelee, Wayne Wills and Tim Tang of Duncan, Charles Wong and Gordon Jennings of Nanaimo.

Police Find Stolen Goods

Sheets, pillow slips and clothing—worth about $1,500—stolen from Economy Steam Laundry, 607 John, Monday night were recovered Wednesday by city detectives.

The mud-stained items were found on Huron Street near the Victoria Machinery Depot's incinerator.

Judy Still Punching

Campaign for Infirm to Vote Makes Headway

By BARRY JOHNSON

Canadian democracy is made workable this way: In Victoria, a 38-year-old housewife and mother of four acted as a deputy returning officer in the recent federal election.

She saw that people who couldn't make it to the polling booths simply could not vote. So Judy Nyquist of 1849 Carnarvon checked the Elections Act and found there is no provision made for the ill and infirm to cast their ballots if they cannot make their way to a polling booth.

Change Law

And now she is out to change the law.

All it requires is a mobile polling booth for hospitals, nursing homes, rest homes and rehabilitation centres, where citizens can vote even if they are not in their own ridings.

But it takes an act of Parliament. And that means moving politicians.

Right after the election she started circulating a petition. She already has about 4,000 names.

Petition Sheets

She picked up 15 names and handed out 10 petition sheets at a meeting Wednesday night of a church group of elderly people.

That's about how it goes. A few names here, promises of help there. Four hours a day, on the average, out of her busy housewife's schedule.

A Herbert Watson, whom she'd never met, phoned when he heard of her campaign and offered her his written version of a resolution. Mr. Watson's resolution is the one she's using.

Students Help

A group of students from the University of Victoria has also offered its help. Students will be knocking on doors tonight, even though they are in the middle of Christmas exam-studying time.

"But four or five people can't go it alone," Mrs. Nyquist says.

"Where are we going to get the bodies? There's no difficulty getting the numbers on the petitions if we have enough hands."

"But we don't have enough."

Hockey Games

She's planning to start attending hockey games, for signatures, not recreation.

"No matter what it is or where it is, I want to get in," Mrs. Nyquist says.

"I really have no goal as to the number of signatures. Every one you can mention is unrealistic," she says. "We'd like to get every eligible voter in Victoria, but that's impossible."

"I thought of about 5,000, but that isn't enough."

Biggest Booster

Len Nyquist thought his wife was a crackpot when she started. Now he's her biggest booster and one of her hardest campaigners.

Premier Bennett, has promised to sign her petition "as an individual."

Choir Concert

A concert of Christmas music will be presented by the Vera Barclay Studio choir at 8 p.m. Dec. 11 in the Y-M-WCA auditorium. Proceeds will go to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society clinic.

Mrs. Nyquist, with Mrs. Judy Creighton, was invited to a provincial cabinet meeting Thursday morning, and she signed up Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, Mines Minister Donald Brothers, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and all the reporters waiting outside. Then she went through the Buildings and signed up 150 assorted civil servants. Mr. Bennett was not there.

She says: "I'll be at every possible gathering they'll let me into."

"I'll probably be kicked out of one or two but nevertheless, I'm going to try."

Direct Dialing Here in 1968

Direct distance dialing will be in Victoria by the summer of 1968, at an initial cost of approximately $500,000, the B.C. Telephone Co. announced Thursday. Victoria is one of the last cities in North America to get the service.

A. A. Higginbotham, district manager at Victoria, said the equipment to be installed is the latest to be manufactured by the Automatic Electric Company at Brockville, Ont. The equipment is expected to arrive in Victoria early in 1968, and will take about five months to install.

City Aldermen Cool To Water Protest

Seen In Passing

Rick Little servicing a vending machine. (An employee of a vending machine company, he lives at 5036 Prospect Lake Road with his wife Bonnie. His hobbies are water skiing and cars.) Jo Andrew becoming a brunette. John Alexis arguing with an early-morning customer. Doreen Copp giving a party. Daniel Dailin playing volleyball. Jack Holdridge making arrangements for the next dance. Jim Smith joking with a passenger. Bill Schaefer trying out his new boat. Jackie Montgomery having trouble with a leopard. Amy Pritchard speaking French. Edythe McCormick playing badminton. Lawrence Jones cooking a steak. David Lam and Deryck Considine singing "Swanee". Muriel Brown visiting Vancouver. William Bill hard at work promoting the Red Mill.

A strong protest from Deep Cove against Victoria's intention to charge for water from Elk Lake got a chilly reception from city aldermen Thursday at a meeting of city council.

"What's wrong with these people? It's our water and we would be selling it to them for less than half the price we have to pay for water," said Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

The long letter, from B. W. W. Clowes, chairman of the board of trustees of Deep Cove Water District, said the Victoria decision would cause deep resentment among the people there, particularly since they were already paying exorbitant prices for water.

LONG DEBATE

After long consultation, the city decided months ago to put a price of five cents a thousand gallons on the water. Control Search drew from Elk Lake. The city buys its own water from the Greater Victoria Water District for 12½ cents a thousand gallons.

Mr. Clowes said that the "closely-populated and comparatively wealthy city was imposing a tax on our water for which we now have to pay prices which would make a city household shudder."

"NO TAX"

"We're not imposing any tax," said Mayor Wilson Thursday. "This is a commodity which we own and which we are selling—and at a very reasonable price, I may add."

"This lake was bought and paid for by the city. Is there any reason why Victoria should give water free to any municipality? Goodness knows, over the years we have been generous enough. Do these people think it should go on forever?" asked Ald. Edgelow.

Aldermen said they would be quite willing to meet Mr. Clowes and the chairman of the Sidney Waterworks District along with a representative of B.C. Ferries, which would also be affected by the imposition of a charge.

Bob Hope's Cufflinks For Auction

An auction featuring everything from lamps to a pair of Bob Hope's cufflinks will be held by the Queen Alexandra Soratorium Junior League Dec. 1, in the old Safeway building at Oak Bay Junction.

The auction list is made up of items donated by city merchants. First item goes on the block at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Karl Banse, associate professor of oceanography at the University of Washington, Seattle, will conduct a seminar here at 8 p.m. Dec. 2 on vertical distribution of the zooplankton in the mixed layer of the ocean. The seminar will be held in Room 167, Elliott building, Gordon Head campus.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell will meet members of city council Dec. 3 to answer troublesome questions about the regional district hospital proposal.

Dickie

Realtor Tries Again

Runner-up in the summer byelection to fill a vacancy on city council, J. Wesley Dickie, Victoria realtor, will try again.

His entry into the municipal race brings to eight the number seeking the five aldermanic vacancies.

HOLD TAX LINE

Mr. Dickie, who was an unsuccessful candidate in a previous contest at the polls, aside from the byelection, asks a "hold-the-line stand on taxes."

He does not think it will be necessary to raise the mill rate and maintains that aldermen should take a firm position on this issue.

BLAMES APATHY

"Apathy is largely to blame for the fact that our taxes are away out of line. It's time the ratepayers of the city began to take a more intense interest in what is happening at City Hall," he said.

Monday is nomination deadline for the municipal election, which will be held on Dec. 11.

Boy Recovering

Robert Aitken, 14, of 2551 MacDonald, who broke his neck in after-school horseplay Tuesday, is in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

There was plenty of opportunity in the months the square was evolving to protest, the alderman said, but nothing was heard until just before council was ready to open tenders on the project.

Opened last week, tenders showed that there were only two bidders for the job. Lowest was that of R. A. Hall Ltd., $176,400. This low tender was about $22,000 higher than the city's estimate for the project.

Starving Does It

TORONTO (CP) — Recent starvation diet experiments conducted at Toronto Western Hospital proved successful. Janet Gray, metabolic dietitian at the hospital told University of Toronto household science alumnae here.

Eleven of 13 women who took the diet, tried on patients suffering from obesity caused by poor eating habits, neurotic over-eating or enforced immobilization, lost an average of 25.1 pounds in three weeks.

They lived on a diet of tea and coffee—sweetened with saccharine if requested — and water. They were never confined to bed, and were permitted to move about freely.

Purpose of the test Miss Gray said was to reduce weight and to give patients a psychological boost that would help them continue a reducing regimen when the starvation diet ended.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem and since you caused it I hope you will straighten it out.

My husband passed away five months ago. This may sound terrible, but his death freed me from a living hell. We never had any children because he didn't want any. For 11 years I put up with his lying, drinking, gambling and abusive language. On three separate occasions he brought women home to spend the night. I was quietly making plans to leave him when he was killed in an accident.

A long-time friend who lost his wife two years ago has asked me to marry him. I have said yes. He is a fine person and I want to be mother to his two little girls.

Now—the trouble. I asked my clergyman how long it was proper for a widow to wait before she remarries. He said "At least one year." Then I wrote to you. Your reply was, "It's how you feel that counts."

Well, Ann, I feel like getting married tomorrow. Who is right, you or the clergyman?—DILEMMA.

Dear Dilemma: People who go around collecting opinions should be prepared for a variety of answers. The "wait year" custom is well and good if a widow wishes to pay real respect to her deceased husband. But why pay respect to 11 years of hell?

Well, Ann, I feel like getting married tomorrow. Who is right, you or the clergyman?—DILEMMA.

Dear Ann Landers: I got married three months ago and already I am writing to Ann Landers. I think this is a bad sign. Before I married, Adelle told me her mother would always come first in her life, no matter what. Well, she is proving it.

My father-in-law's business takes him out of town every three weeks for two days. Adelle goes to sleep with her mother whenever her father is out of town and I am left alone. I don't like this a bit and I have said so.

Auxiliaries Ask To Change Name

EDMONTON (CP)—The National Social Credit Women's Auxiliary said they want the party's name revised because it "is not clearly understood."

Delegates to the auxiliaries' national convention passed a resolution asking the party's national convention to consider a name change.

The two-day national convention opened Thursday.

The resolution, passed with only a few dissenting votes, suggested an explanation be added to the title defining the party's purpose. No suggested explanation was outlined.

Delegates opposed a suggestion that the party be named the "Free Competitive Enterprise Party."

National leader Robert Thompson later told delegates he is "not sure whether the party name will remain the same because it is so misrepresented in Eastern Canada."

National women's president, Mrs. Ian F. Smith of Calgary, said "social" often is taken to stand for socialism whereas the party advocates free enterprise.

The Women's Auxiliaries urged the federal government to legalize the dissemination of birth control information.

The resolution stated the code Grind cooked ham and combine with cream cheese, tomato sauce with mushrooms and pickle relish for a delicious sandwich spread or celery filler.

Bride Makes Gown Of French Brocade

Culture pearls starred the gold brooch, a gift of the groom, worn by Jennie Elizabeth Jacobson. Saturday, when she exchanged marriage vows and rings with Gerald Victor Booth in First United Church.

The brooch complemented a gown of white French brocade, slightly fitted and floor-length, which she had made herself. A train swept back from the waistband of the empire-line bodice which was styled with a princess neckline and lily point sleeves. Her three-tier veil of silk illusion net misted to chapel-length from a coronet of white pearls and antique crystals. Red roses and white feathered carnations were in her crescent bouquet.

Arrangements of white chrysanthemums decorated First United Church when Rev. Leighton Straight heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans A. Jacobson, 640 Dunedin Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor N. Booth, 4459 Torquay Drive. Mr. Jacobson gave his daughter in marriage.

"The Lord's Prayer" and "Those Whom God Hath Joined Together" was sung by soloist Miss Irene Harris during the ceremony.

Matching gowns of soft green crystal peau, styled on empire lines, were worn by maid of honor, Miss Roberta Lister and bridesmaids, Mrs. M. Jacobson and Mrs. B. Lundstrom.

They complemented their outfits with wedding-ring headpieces on tone, edged with veils, and carried bouquets of white roses and chrysanthemums. All wore culture pearl pins, gifts of the bride.

Dr. David Emery was best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows were Don Jacobson and Brian Lindsay.

Red and white roses topped the three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's mother, which centred the head table at the reception in Holyrood House. Red roses and carnations completed table decorations.

Gerald W. Lister proposed the toast to his goddaughter. The couple will make their home at 1007 Fairfield Road following a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Booth chose a cranberry red two-piece suit of wool, accented with maribou hat on tone, black accessories and white orchid en corsage.

Mothers.
Now an Effective
Cough Syrup That Children Love to Take

Pleasant-tasting Jack & Jill Cough Syrup with added Vitamin C Works wonders—children love it.

One of the most disturbing sounds a mother can hear is her child coughing at night. A nagging cough from a cold seems so much worse when it's irritating a child. The throat membranes of children are more sensitive, more easily hurt. This is why W. K. Beckley spent years perfecting his special cough syrup for children. His time and trouble have been well rewarded. Today, Jack & Jill Cough Syrup helps more children's coughs than any other product in Canada. There are a number of very good reasons why Jack & Jill Cough Syrup is preferred by most Canadian Mothers. The carefully selected ingredients in Jack & Jill Cough Syrup are double-acting. They relieve the congestion that causes so much trouble, and they soothe irritated throat membranes, making it easier for the child to swallow. Jack & Jill eases the irritation and lets your child rest comfortably. Children like Jack & Jill. The mild, white-cherry taste gives this cough syrup the pleasant flavour that children like so well. Jack & Jill Cough Syrup is both a treat and a treatment. And every dose of Jack & Jill contains added Vitamin C—the vitamin children especially need when they are feverish.

Jack & Jill Cough Syrup for children is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name.

Legion Commander

Pacifist Veteran Ousted

JEWETT CITY, Conn. (AP)—Robert Hollis came to this small town in eastern Connecticut two years ago to revive his life to pacifist activities.

Being a veteran, he joined the Jewett City American Legion. He had been a medical corpsman in Korea.

Last June he was elected post commander.

Tuesday night he was suspended.

Commander Hollis had gone up to Massachusetts on Veterans Day last Thursday to picket outside Fort Devens, an army post. He demonstrated wearing the blue uniform of the Legion. The 175-member Laflamme-Kussek Post 15 was thrown into a turmoil. The state American Legion department had promised to initiate action if the post did not act.

Hollis, 36, appeared Tuesday night wearing his commander's uniform and cap.

Illiteracy Waning In Cuba

Illiteracy is on the wane in Cuba, University of Victoria political science students were told Tuesday by Dr. Americo Cruz, Cuban ambassador to Canada.

As part of Cuba's further education program, high school students were being sent into the homes of peasants.

Case Returned To Conductor

Road-Hog Answer: Paint More Lanes

By A. H. MURPHY

What about the character who creeps along in the middle of the road and who won't move over and let you by? Pass him on the right and you're in trouble.

This was a problem considered by members of the Victoria police commission. Consensus was that there isn't very much that can be done.

ABOARD BEND

Police are to be instructed to pull such drivers over and gently but firmly inform them they are holding up traffic and, probably, sending following motorists around the bend.

Traffic inspector R. G. Maitland told commissioners that it was hard to educate drivers in this respect. If a slow centre-line leech was honked at from behind and didn't move to the right, he was breaking the law.

Slowpoke Hard To Cure

However, in order to make a charge stick a police officer had to be right on the spot, and this didn't often happen.

Record Set In Shipping

MONTREAL (CP)—W. J. Bennett, president of the Lower St. Lawrence and Gulf Development Association, said here that shipping activity at lower St. Lawrence and Gulf ports in 1964 from the mouth of the Saguenay to the sea reached an all-time record volume of some 43,000,000 tons.

What he hoped to get, the inspector said, was a police car with a public address system to help educate such people.

Chief J. F. Gregory admitted that more often than not it was not the centre-lane hog who was charged but the man who, harassed and impatient, passed on the right even though, in many cases, he did so quite safely.

It was suggested that if more streets were lined in the city the problem of the centre-of-the-road driver might be solved.

Durable Mikoyan Honored

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Wednesday paid tribute to President Anastas Mikoyan, the great Kremlin "survivor," on the occasion of his 70th birthday.

The presidium of the Supreme Soviet awarded the Armenian-born old Bolshevik the order of Lenin and wished him "many more years" of service to the state.

His picture was plastered all over the front pages of the nation's press.

Such honors as the Order of Lenin are automatically awarded to top leaders on key birthdays such as 50, 60 or 70.

While the post of president—technically chairman of the Supreme Soviet—is a ceremonial post, Mikoyan is far from a figurehead in the Soviet hierarchy.

Western diplomats rank him after party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin in the power pyramid.

Mikoyan first displayed his power of survival when he escaped the firing squad in 1918 during the upheavals following the Bolshevik revolution.

Well known to Americans because of his visits to the United States, the Armenian expert on foreign trade has since seen the power elite come and go—Lenin, Stalin, Malenkov, Bulganin and finally Khrushchev.

But Mikoyan is still around and the credit goes to his political acumen, executive talent and ability to pick the right side in a power struggle.

As president, he seems well entrenched in his regular niche near the throne but because of declining health there are rumors he may retire in the not-too-distant future—although remaining on in the presidium of the Communist party as an elder statesman.

Missing U.S. Heiress Now Married, Mother

Anna Maria

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—The mysterious disappearance of a pretty 17-year-old heiress due to inherit a Swiss fortune of $10,000,000 shortly before Christmas, was solved Thursday when she turned up here—married and the mother of a baby daughter.

Anna Maria Hitz Bierschenk became the object of an international search when her mother, Anna Spring-Hitz of Washington, D.C., reported her missing earlier this month.

After reading in newspapers here that authorities were looking for her, she promptly cabled her mother: "I am happy, married and have a baby daughter."

BORN NOV. 5

Mrs. Spring-Hitz said she planned to try to place a call to her daughter if she did not receive a telephone call or cable.

Anna Maria, who was born in Venezuela, said she is living with her husband, Polish-born Ulrich Bierschenk, who is now a German citizen, in Caracas.

She said their daughter, Claudia Rosa, was born Nov. 2 and the birth was registered with Venezuelan authorities Nov. 19.

Anna Maria, the centre of an international kidnap-custody dispute for four years, was last heard from Oct. 28 in California. She was accompanied by the 25-year-old Bierschenk and her pet Chow dog.

FEARED ABDUCTION

Anna Maria's mother had feared that the girl might have been taken out of the country against her will. She said the Hitz family in Switzerland might be attempting to regain custody of Anna Maria, who will lay claim to the estate her late father, a Swiss coffee magnate who made his millions in Latin America, on her 18th birthday, Dec. 20.

At that time, she will be able to demand an accounting of the estate and possible cash interest on the Hitz holdings, but she cannot actually receive the assets until she's 21.

SMUGGLED OUT

Mrs. Spring-Hitz, now a church rectory housekeeper in Washington, smuggled her daughter out of Switzerland and the custody of the Hitz family in 1961.

Anna Maria left Washington last July with Bierschenk for Logan, Utah, where Bierschenk was attending Utah State University.

A part-time model, she had been attending a fashionable private school in Washington.

Lords Grant Power

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Lords Thursday night approved without a vote eight regulations empowering the government to deal with Rhodesia's breakaway from Britain.

The House of Commons had already approved them. The government now has the powers it needs to impose sanctions and other measures.

BRITISH POWERS

The government has the power to invalidate any laws passed by the Rhodesian parliament after Prime Minister Ian Smith's declaration of independence, cancel Rhodesia's Commonwealth trade preferences rights, and enable the Commonwealth relations secretary to exercise authority in Rhodesia.

Lord Salisbury, a Conservative party supporter of the white Rhodesians, asserted in opposition that the policy of sanctions is unrealistic and Britain will in the end "have to eat the bitter bread of humiliation."

Challengers Tossed Out By Rhodesia

SALISBURY (AP)—Nine Negro members and one white member of the Rhodesian parliament challenged the legality of Prime Minister Ian Smith's independence government in parliament Thursday and wound up on the sidewalk outside.

Dr. Ahern Palley, the independent white member representing the Negro constituency of Highfield, was ordered out of the chamber for "disregarding the authority of the chair" by Speaker A. R. W. Stumbles. The sergeant-at-arms conducted him outside.

The nine Negro members headed by Josiah Gondo, chairman of the United Peoples party who also had questioned the legality of the proceedings, followed him out.

HARD TO FOLLOW

It all took place amid so much stomping, yelling and general disorderliness, it was difficult to follow. At one point, after Palley had shouted that the constitution promulgated by Smith two weeks ago has no legal standing, a loud voice boomed out: "The law is an ass."

The Speaker ruled that any members unable to accept the new constitution and the legality of the sitting 'should dissociate themselves completely from the transaction of business.' That is what happened.

The only real business of the session was a report by the minister of justice and law and order, Desmond Lardner - Burke, on the reasons for the state of emergency proclaimed Nov. 5. After the 10 recalcitrant members had departed, the minister rose from his green-leather bench under a life-size portrait of Queen Elizabeth.

New Zealand Joins Boycott

Neighbor Mobilizes

ACCRA (Reuters) — Ghana stopped all military leave Thursday and announced plans for mobilization of its armed forces because of the Rhodesian situation.

President Kwame Nkrumah, announcing the measures to a cheering parliament, suggested that Rhodesia's white rulers could easily be toppled by a local uprising organized by other African states.

Olney Water Colors Better at University

By Ian D. D. Umhaff

Having been disappointed with the water colors that Toni Olney was represented by in the recent showing of works by 10 outstanding Canadians at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, I went up to the university to have a look at his current exhibition there.

The gallery is not a large one, but it is one that is particularly suited to watercolors. It has the intimate layout that lends itself to graphics.

INTENSITY

Toni Olney's paintings, though small in scale, have developed an intensity of feeling which never communicated itself to me in his oils and collages of previous years.

In his recent work there is a remoteness, a surrendering to the mood of the place which grips one in Secret Place and Solitary Boulders, the two most successful, to my way of thinking, in the collection.

COME LONG WAY

To be able to create such an intense feeling of solitude by using boulders on a shore and a limited color range shows how far he has come since he painted the representational landscapes of 1946 which are included in this showing. They are good watercolors, but they do not possess the personal vision of the rock motif studies. After Secret Place and Solitary Boulders, I find myself in sympathy with Dialogue and Solitude.

The remainder of the collection could have been cut down

Santa's Place In Heart

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yes Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. But Dr. Benjamin Spock wishes he would remain in the hearts and minds of children and steer clear of street corners and department stores.

Spock, an authority on children, said in a copyrighted article in Redbook magazine the experience of seeing a "live Santa" is "quite upsetting" to young children.

"Most of these characters believe their job is to talk and laugh louder than anyone else a small child has ever met," Spock said. "Their clothes and beards are equally strange."

Another "real hazard" of Christmas is gift-giving, the doctor said. One of the strongest reactions a child has to the holidays is "greediness," he said.

Car Pact Aid To Canadians

MONCTON, N.B. (UPI) — Price tags on Canadian automobiles will eventually be comparable to those in the United States, Earl Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) Ltd., told a news conference here. He said Canadian would benefit from this year's Canada-U.S. auto trade agreement.

Missing Man Found Dead

MINTO, N.B. (UPI) — The body of 35-year-old Eliu Sinnett of Newcastle Bridge, N.B., missing since Monday, has been discovered today beneath a light covering of snow. Several hundred searchers combed the woods near Minto during the past few days for Sinnett who had been wandering in the dense woods.

East Germans Kill Comrade

WEST BERLIN (Reuters) — East German border guards shot one of their comrades trying to escape over the Berlin wall into the British sector, West Berlin custom officials said. The border guards left him lying bleeding at the wall for about 30 minutes before taking him away on a stretcher.

Judas Could Qualify

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor member Leslie Hale told the House of Commons Wednesday that if the 12 apostles of Jesus Christ were to land as immigrants in Britain today, only Judas Iscariot would be likely to qualify for admission.

The reference to Judas, who betrayed Christ for money, came as the House was debating the government's curbs on the number of immigrants entering Britain. Hale said he knew of persons who were refused permission to land because they had no money. But, he said, if a man arrived with £200,000 ($600,000) and no character he was allowed in. 1. he had a high character and no money would he be admitted? Hale asked. Judas "would have the necessary 30 pieces of silver and may well have invested it profitably and have more," he added.

Garden Notes

Humus Does Trick

By M. V. CHESNUT

When you buy those beautiful, long, straight carrots and other imported vegetables in the supermarkets, it might surprise you to know that much of the land on which these prize specimens are grown was poor, thin, sandy soil of no particular value until it was worked over. The market garden areas of Florida and much of southern California is light, sandy loam, originally very open in texture because of the comparatively large grains which make up its bulk.

Such sandy, infertile soil could be compared to a bucket of peas, while heavier clay soils may be likened to a paill of flour. The particles of flour are tiny and pack closely together, while the peas are large and rounded, with quite a bit of air space between them.

Air penetrates easily into coarse-grained sandy soil, the drainage is good, and the ground warms up much earlier in the spring. It is thirsty soil, though, for water runs straight through it, for it has no ability to store moisture.

To get some body into such light land, the problem is to fill up the spaces between the coarse grains so that moisture and plant food is retained. At the same time, we must try to preserve the qualities of warmth and good drainage.

The material best suited for filling up the spaces between the grains is that mysterious jelly-like substance we call humus, which is the end product from the rotting of organic matter in the soil.

This can be manure, green cover crops, compost, leaves, litter or anything else of an organic nature, including sawdust. Close-grained dung such as cow and pig manure is especially good on light soils, as these beasts chew their food into a much finer state than the drier, coarser foods of horses, and it has, therefore, a stickier and more binding action on the sand particles.

Such hungry soil isn't converted into a fertile loam overnight, though, for it will need to be fed regularly over the years with every single scrap of vegetable wastes you can get your hands on. Properly and regularly fed with humus-making material, though, sandy soil can become highly fertile, for it has a texture and warmth which is congenial to the roots of all plants. Crops are earlier, bigger and cleaner once its organic content is brought up to satisfactory level and its moisture-holding capacity improved. Perennials, shrubs and bulbs have a much better chance of coming safely through the winter on well-drained sandy soil.

Liming is nearly always necessary on light, sandy soil as calcium is leached out so readily by the rain. This poses another problem, for lime accelerates the rate at which the manure or other organic matter is used up, so further dressings are needed.

One way of slowing down this washing-out of calcium and other plant nutrients is to keep the ground covered constantly with growing plants. It should be the rule to scatter seeds of a green manure crop as soon as any section of the plot becomes vacant, turning it under in due course. Even a covering of weeds serves a useful purpose in winter by breaking the force of the rain and by retaining the plant nutrients near the surface.

It's Self Above All

SYDNEY HARRIS

When young people ask, as they often do, about the best way to understand themselves and others, I usually refer them to a maxim of Goethe, which at first startles them, because it seems upside down.

"If you want to know yourself, observe what your neighbors are doing," he said. "If you want to understand others, probe within yourself."

Most of us do exactly the opposite. We observe our neighbors in order to understand them; and we probe within ourselves, in order to understand ourselves better. But neither can be done in these obvious ways.

This is because we normally look at others objectively and look at ourselves subjectively.

We see others in the cool light of sanity and realism—we detect their flaws, their weaknesses, their self-deceptions, their prejudices masquerading as principles. When we probe within ourselves, we cannot see the same distortions, for the personality's angle of vision does not retract this far. We see only our own good intentions, our wistful dreams and hopes, our hidden fears and deepest needs and our unrelenting calls for love and appreciation.

Even when we try to be self-critical, it is not in the same way in which others are critical of us. For it is not really justice we want, for ourselves, but mercy on top of it.

Since everyone—except, perhaps the severely disturbed—feels this same way inside, it is when we probe within ourselves that we come closer to grasping the essential nature of others. And it is only when we look at others, with a candid eye, that we can realize how equally transparent we must seem to them.

It is no accident that the most saintly men and women considered themselves as "sinners," while loving the rest of humanity. For this is precisely what makes a saint and distinguishes him from the rest of us: he looks at others subjectively, and at himself objectively. He judges himself with cold justice, and others with warm mercy, so that their major faults seem to him less grievous than his own minor flaws.

Most of us, of course, cannot approach anywhere near this profound reversal of everyday values. (And if we try to do it before we are ready for it, we turn into a neurotic limitation of sanity; no one is worse than the person who wants to be a saint before he is fully human.)

Self-scrutiny is painful and futile, if its end is to "know thyself." Introspection is not at all what Socrates meant in his famous injunction; for we can know ourselves only by entering into the Other, and we can know the Other only when we appraise him by the same merciful standards we apply to the Self.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Brigitte Pageant Due

NEW YORK (NANA) — New Yorkers are in for a pageant when Brigitte Bardot comes to town. She always travels with her make-up girl, hairdresser—mother, and son. Her mother has coiffed the famed Bardot tresses for 10 years. Brigitte and Jeanne Moreau, her Viva Maria co-star, will fly in from France together, and have already stated they will give no individual interviews. They will talk to the press in the mass.

Charlton Heston has been getting the worst of it from the reviewers in his recent costume pictures, The Agony and The Ecstasy, and The War Lord. Costume epics are hard to bring to life. "Producers don't see me as a 20th century-man," says Chuck. "All the good modern roles go to Jack Lemmon and Cary Grant." But I don't worry about Heston. Once you have made it as a world-wide star, it doesn't seem to matter what they write about your performance or your pictures. Marlon Brando hasn't had a hit picture for I don't know how long—not since Sayonara. His One-Eyed Jacks cost Paramount $6,000,000. But the producers still come abegging for Brando.

Sean Connery has been invited to attend the Dec. 16 premiere of Richard Burton's The Spy Who Came in From the Cold. The inducements are a trip to New York, a hotel suite and the use of a car and chauffeur. Agent 007 is Scotch. I'll be surprised if he refuses. When the James Bond movie is over, Sean will direct plays and perhaps pictures. And act in the films of his choice.

Desi Arnaz, who hasn't done much since the divorce several years ago from Lucille Ball—except gain weight, that is—is now shedding the pounds, getting slicked up in Sy Devore suits and preparing to swing back into action as an actor-producer.

When I asked Omar Sharif how he thought the $11,000,000 plus Doctor Zhivago would be, he replied, "I think it will be all right." The picture will have to make about $20,000,000 to earn a profit. The MGM people are hoping—and praying—they have a smash. I look forward to seeing it.

ERMA BOMBECK Victim of Relaxation

Knitting Builds Tension

Everybody agreed I was tense. I needed to relax...unwind...take on an interest outside

STAMP OUT THE SCOPE

Before People Enjoy Themselves Too Much

The Appeal Sponsored by the S.C.O.P.E. Society of Certain Opposition to People's Enjoyment of my home...why not an informal class...say knitting. Learning how to knit was a snap. It was learning how to stop that nearly destroyed me. The first week I turned out 38 pot holders. The second week I racked up eight pairs of bedroom slippers.

By the third week, I was so intent on a rug it was like a compulsion. I couldn't seem to stop myself.

By the end of the first month of knitting, I was showing visible strain from my relaxing hobby. There were deep, dark circles under my eyes. My upper lip twitched uncontrollably. There were calluses on both my thumbs and forefingers.

I cried a lot from exhaustion. But I was driven by some mad inner desire to knit 15 toilet tissue covers, shaped like little men's hats, by the end of the week.

My husband was the first one to suspect I needed professional help with my "knitting problem."

"You've gone beyond the 'social' aspect of knitting," he said. "Let's face it. You've got a problem and you're going to have to taper off. From here on in, no new yarn."

I promised faithfully, but I knew I wouldn't keep my promise.

My addiction inevitably led to dishonesty, lying, cheating, and selling various and sundry items to support my habit. I was always being discovered.

They unearthed a hidden skein of mohair in a cereal box...an argyle sock kit hidden in the chandelier, and one afternoon I was found feverishly unravelling an old ski cap just to knit it over again.

One night when the clicking of knitting needles in the darkness awakened my husband, he sat up in bed, snapped on the light and said quietly, "Tomorrow, I'm enrolling you in 'Knitters Anonymous.' Can't you see what's happening to you? To us? To the children? You can't do this by yourself."

He was right, of course. "Knitters Anonymous" pointed out the foolishness of my compulsion to knit all the time. They eventually weaned me off knitting yarn and interested me in another hobby...oil painting.

Would you believe it? I did eight watercolors the first week, 15 charcoal sketches the second and by the end of this month I will have racked up 23 oils, all on stretched canvas...

To Hit Consumer

Price Boosts Planned By Oil Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three oil companies said within hours of accepting a government-proposed strike settlement that the wage increases to labor will mean higher prices for petroleum products.

Labor leaders, who expect the British Columbia settlement to form the basis for industry-wide contracts, said any increase would be unwarranted.

Imperial Oil Co., Home Oil Co., and Shell Canada Ltd. made statements saying the wage increase would show up in costs to the consumer.

But J. R. Duncan, national director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (OCAW), said Thursday:

"There is absolutely no need for a price increase."

Mr. Duncan said labor costs form an extremely small fraction of the price of a gallon of gasoline, perhaps two or three cents.

Oil company spokesmen would not say when they expected the price increase to take place, but union sources said it was unlikely until current disputes throughout the industry are settled.

Take Place Regionally

An oil industry source said any price increase would likely take place first regionally as wage settlements are made.

There was no indication whether price increases were contemplated in other provinces.

Furnace oil delivered to homes in the Vancouver area now sells from 17.6 to 19.8 cents per gallon. Gasoline for cars ranges from as low as 38.9 in the Vancouver area to almost 50 cents a gallon in some remote northern districts.

Mr. Duncan said he expected the B.C. settlement formula then level off nationally.

The 500 oil workers on strike in B.C. were expected to be back at work when a new contract is signed, probably about the middle of next week.

Bennett and Accuser Meet Face to Face

By A. H. MURPHY

Bounding up the steps of the Victoria Law Courts building Thursday, Premier Bennett brushed past newsmen to appear at an examination for discovery in a slander suit brought against him by B.C.'s former chief purchasing agent.

Accompanied by counsel George L. Murray of Vancouver, Mr. Bennett was conducted to the office of the Supreme Court registrar, Bernard Morahan, where he was sworn to tell the truth.

CIRCLED BUILDING

This preliminary to every examination for discovery followed the premier's arrival at the front door in his black limousine. The car arrived at the west door of the courthouse and then circled the building.

Premier Bennett got out of his car and, at a fast walk, raced up the steps to the law court building, past photographers and in the door, where he entered the office of the registrar on the first floor.

With a fixed half-smile on his face, he first said, "No comment," and "No time now" to reporters but later, on his walk down the hallway, did consent to a few words on the strike settlement.

After the swearing-in, Mr. Bennett, accompanied by the

BA in Montreal Reaches Pact

MONTREAL (CP)—The British American Oil Co. says in a statement the independent bargaining organization at its Montreal East refinery has accepted a new two-year contract with the company.

The registrar, who cautioned photographers against taking pictures in the Law Courts building, took the elevator to a room above where the examination took place in camera.

JONES PRESENT

G. E. P. Jones, who is bringing the action against Mr. Bennett, and his counsel, Thomas R. Berger, also of Vancouver, were present.

The writ against Mr. Bennett was launched on March 28 of this year. Statement of claim was filed later.

'Mr. Peterson, Myself and Advisers'

Premier Bennett took full credit Thursday for his government in the settlement of the oil workers' strike.

Neither management nor labor had any part in fashioning the settlement formula for the 10-week dispute which, in its final phase, threatened to paralyze the economic life of the province.

Asked who composed the peace pact, Mr. Bennet said: "It was a combination of Mr. Peterson (provincial labor minister) and myself, along with our advisers and, of course, the assistance of the provincial department of labor staff."

It was, then, purely a government effort, a reporter suggested.

"It was—no management and no labor," Mr. Bennett said.

Targets: Washington, Moscow

Dual Peace Drive Mapped by Wilson

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson announced Thursday night a dual British drive in Washington and Moscow to get Viet Nam peace talks started.

Wilson told the House of Commons that his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, will fly to Moscow Monday in an effort to persuade the Soviet Union to join Britain in reviving the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina as a forum for peace talks.

Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of that conference and would be jointly charged with reconvening it.

The prime minister also said he will explore every possibility for a Viet Nam settlement with President Johnson in the United States Dec. 17.

HOPEFUL STATEMENTS

But he made clear in replying to hostile questions from left-wing Labor MPs that in his view it is the North Vietnamese, not the Americans, who are blocking peace efforts.

British authorities said Wilson and Stewart are intrigued by a number of hopeful statements coming from minor Communist countries on the possibility of getting Viet Nam peace talks started.

North Viet Nam Denies 'Feelers'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam denied in effect Thursday that it has proposed negotiations to end the Vietnamese war.

The aim appeared to be to counteract random diplomatic reports over the last few months that the North Vietnamese were willing to talk. President Johnson expressed U.S. willingness last April to enter unconditional discussion. Nothing firm has developed.

Searcher Lost As Man Found

PORT HARDY (CP) — A search party lost one and gained one Thursday.

It found prospector Bud Ditto of Cranbrook and Vancouver who was lost in the Nahawilt Lake area about 15 miles west of Port Hardy.

But it lost Pat Taylor, 21, of Alert Bay, who wandered away from a search group to which he was assigned.

Thirty men will look for Taylor today. But an RCMP spokesman said he had a food supply and would probably walk out alone.

Police said Ditto was prospecting with a party and became lost on the way back to the Holberg highway Wednesday.

DUNCAN — A home-made bomb, planted at the base of a small private dam near Bird's Eye Cove in the Maple Bay area, was taken apart by RCN explosives experts Thursday.

Three residents were working at the dam, part of a private reservoir, when they found the device at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

One of the three had seen it several weeks ago without guessing the content.

They took a closer look Wednesday, then picked it up and carried it to a nearby marina.

An RCMP officer from Duncan looked at the device and obeyed RCMP policy not to move bombs.

The police called the navy, and Lieut. Don Hope and AB Rick Russell went to the marina from Victoria Thursday.

They found an L-shaped, one-inch-thick galvanized pipe, capped, complete with detonator and wire. It was filled with dynamite.

The bomb was defused and the dynamite removed.

Pieces were left with Duncan RCMP, who will continue investigations.

British Housewives Fighting for Bread

LONDON (AP) — Housewives fought each other in queues in a rush on stores for bread as a bakers' strike Thursday threatened 20,000,000 Britons with a weekend bread famine.

Stocks were snapped up in bakery shops and other stores within minutes—even while attempts were made to impose rationing of one loaf to a customer.

The strike of 10,000 bakers, seeking a 30-per-cent wage increase to £15 ($45) a week, hit half of England, including London.

The Labor government months ago urged 3½ per cent as a pattern for pay increases in all industries in an attempt to prevent setting off a spiraling inflation. But an appeal to the bakers union to submit the dispute to arbitration was ignored.

Small independent bakeries still operated but their output could not come close to meeting the normal demand.

In a self-service store in Croydon, a suburb of London, a clerk said: "Some of the women behaved like animals. It disgusted me."

The union has announced its determination to stand pat. It was shutting down the big bakeries for 48 hours, bringing a halt to weekend supplies.

Colonist 500 Fund

Second Donation Given By VMD Employees

The season's first donors to the Colonist 500 Fund for the needy at Christmas have come through again. Employees of VMD followed up their handsome $400 gift with another $150 Thursday.

The 500 Fund at present is growing even faster than it did last year.

The fund to provide a cash Christmas bonus for the 500 most destitute families in Greater Victoria has already reached $1,670, or about $3.40 for each family.

When the fund was divided up last year, it provided $24 for each. And contributions are a little higher now than they were at this stage last year.

This is the ninth year of the fund.

The 500 families are chosen by the Christmas Bureau, an agency of the Community Chest. The cash is given with no strings attached and there are no administrative costs.

You can help by mailing or bringing your contribution to The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

New Quebec Readers Arouse Storm

Father, Mother Replace Jesus and God

QUEBEC (CP) — Charges of religion removed and replaced by lay equivalents.

This substitution in the Forest-Quimet texts provoked Frederic Dorion, chief justice of the Quebec Superior Court, into lashing out against "a handful of agnostics who are trying to make our children forget everything having to do with religion and the existence of God."

The revised editions of two primary school readers which appeared this year have had all verbal or pictorial references to religion removed and replaced by lay equivalents.

This substitution in the Forest-Quimet texts provoked Frederic Dorion, chief justice of the Quebec Superior Court, into lashing out against "a handful of agnostics who are trying to make our children forget everything having to do with religion and the existence of God."

Speaking last week at the opening of the assizes in Quebec City, Mr. Dorion said that in order to please this group "we have totally deformed the first- and second-year readers in the province's schools."

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, counter attacked with the accusation that Mr. Justice Dorion was "witch-hunting."

The changes in the readers, "far from being the work of agnostics" are the modifications

approved by the catechism committee "created by the Roman Catholic bishops themselves."

Examination of the old and revised texts shows that the greatest change is in the first-year reader. All illustrations of a religious nature have been replaced by non-religious scenes.

On the first page of the revised edition, a picture of the Christ child, John the Baptist and his lamb has been replaced by that of a child playing with blocks while an adult looks on.

Throughout the text the words Jesus, God, Mary and saints have disappeared and been replaced by father, mother, uncle, aunt and others.

The second lesson of the former edition contained this sentence: "Aline likes cats and she would have wanted the Christ child to give her one as a New Year's gift."

In the revised edition this was replaced by: "Aline likes cats and she would have liked to receive one as a New Year's gift."

In the fourth lesson of the old edition a disobedient child cries: "I am well punished for my disobedience! My God, cure me, I will no longer be talkative. I promise you." In the new edition this becomes: "I am punished for my disobedience! I will no longer be talkative."

Nasser Open In Admiration Of Americans!

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser expressed admiration Wednesday for the development and drive of the American people. He said U.A.R. relations with the United States had shown a "great improvement" since the crisis at the beginning of the year.

In a 90-minute speech opening the National Assembly, Nasser attributed the crisis to differences over Israel but added "the two sides have exerted important efforts to ease the tension."

Relations between the two countries should be based on "mutual understanding and mutual esteem," he said.

Nasser made no mention of American aid but last night U.S. Ambassador Lucius Battle called on the president at the ambassador's request. There was speculation among political circles Battle informed Nasser of United States agreement to a new aid program.

A year ago on Thanksgiving Day, an Egyptian mob burned down the John F. Kennedy Library on the grounds of the U.S. Embassy, an event which helped disrupt U.A.R.-American relations.

FIRST REFERENCE

In what observers said was his first reference to the Sino-Soviet dispute, Nasser commented: "Liberation movements supported by Russia and China have suffered as a result of this dispute."

He regretted the Sino-Soviet quarrel and hoped it had not reached the point of no return. Commenting on the Rhodesian situation, Nasser said: "Imperialism has been pretending its disapproval while it possesses the opportunity and means to change the situation."

HOPE RAISED

He made no reference to Britain in talking about Rhodesia, but said later there had been no improvement in U.A.R.-British relations despite the hopes raised when the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson took power.

Nasser said Franco-Egyptian friendship was strengthening and he praised President Charles de Gaulle as "one of the leading proponents of national dignity and national freedom."

Nasser reserved his warmest comments for Russia, noting relations between the two nations were becoming stronger and there was "a deep understanding" with the Soviet leaders as a result of his visit to Moscow in September.

Indonesians Told:

'We Don't Need Red Party'

JAKARTA (UPI)—Minister of Information Maj.-Gen. Achmad said Wednesday that existence of the Indonesian Communist Party was not necessary for the attainment of the aims of national revolution.

Comparing the revolutions of America and France, Achmad said the Indonesian revolution is much bigger as its aim is three-fold—to fight against imperialism, to build an independent country, and to struggle for social justice and prosperity for the people.

WORKERS, STUDENTS

The general spoke to leaders of workers and student organizations at Makassar, Radio Jakarta said.

Achmad said the Sept. 30th Movement was only "like a part of a wave in a big ocean." But Indonesia's revolution was a major revolution and there was still much more to fight for, he said.

He stressed that Nasakom (nationalism, religion and Communism) was still the form of Indonesia's revolution but to "achieve the revolution, there was no need for the presence of the PKI."

Meanwhile the Indonesian military appeared to have be-

Bennett Meets Jones

Mr. Jones contends that the premier made statements at a Victoria Social Credit meeting on March 5 which slandered him.

Mr. Jones was removed subsequently from the office of provincial purchasing commission chairman.

In an examination for discovery, each of the contending parties has the opportunity to question the other. The informal inquiry may be conducted before the registrar but more often is not.

The statements made at the inquiry are taken down and transcripts made available to each counsel.

It is possible that the future disposition of the suit could hinge on the examination. Tentative date for the trial is Dec. 30 in Vancouver Law Courts.

and a spokesman for British American Oil Co. said they expected a settlement there on the basis of the B.C. formula, but the union spokesman said no end to the strike appeared in sight.

The settlement formula proposed Wednesday by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson and accepted within an hour by the union is seen in labor circles as a victory in the area of automation.

For one thing, it recognizes automation is a subject for collective bargaining. This principle, said Mr. Duncan, had been given "only some recognition in a few weak contracts," and was not recognized in the industry as a whole.

In the area of automation, the formula called for a standing labor-management committee on automation, six months notice of automation changes leading to layoffs, as asked by the union, government-management restraining of employees displaced by automation, and a week's severance pay for every year of service, up to 26 weeks. The OCAW had sought a year's severance pay for every five years of service.

The settlement formula called for a two-year contract giving a total wage increase of 35 cents. The union had asked for 50 cents, on the basis rate of $2.75 an hour.

Mr. Duncan said the automation committee proposal was a suggestion made by the union during negotiations. He said the final automation terms were "not too far" from the union's last position during bargaining, but said the wage settlement was a little disappointing.

Imperial Oil Co. said the wage settlement was "inflationary," and would inevitably be reflected in costs to the economy as a whole.

How to Live a Long Life: Care for Chronic Condition

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: When I retired in 1961 my problem was diagnosed as coronary heart disease. The severe chest pain have long since disappeared, and so has shortness of breath unless I forego rest periods after meals.

However, a bluish tint prevails around my lips. It is more pronounced when I am tired.

What is your guess as to my longevity in view of this, as well as that I'm always occupied in some benevolent enterprise? It seems I'm busier now at 70 working for free than I was when earning a substantial salary.—S.H.P.

I broke my crystal ball long ago and refuse to predict longevity. Disturbingly healthy people get run over by cars or develop some unexpected disease, and die. And people with dangerous conditions succeed in taking care of themselves very effectively and outlive others who seemingly have nothing to worry about.

There's more truth than nonsense in the adage about the way to live a long life: Have some chronic condition that you have to take care of.

This is true of several kinds of heart disease. A cranky heart will still serve us for a long time if given half a chance.

Many people who develop heart disease refuse to believe this, and insist on going at the rate they used to—with disastrous results.

At the other extreme, there are people with comparatively mild heart trouble (not that we can call such a thing really "mild") who ought to remain moderately active, but they don't. They are so overwhelmed and frightened that they go into reverse and don't do anything. That's bad for them, too.

GREAT LESSON

So what about you? You have a serious heart condition, but you have learned the one great lesson: Remain active within your limitations, and know what the limitations are.

You have, in the last four years, ridden yourself of your heart pains, and you have learned the amount of rest you need in order to avoid shortness of breath. If only we could convince ALL heart patients of the importance of these simple but vital facts we would be far ahead.

NOT SURPRISING

Yes, you have some blueness of the lips, but that is scarcely surprising. You know your heart isn't as strong as it used to be.

You remain active and interested, and you know how to protect yourself against trying to do too much.

I can't guess how long you will live. I couldn't guess even if you didn't have a heart that needs to be babied along. But barring the unexpected you ought to have some years of continuing your benevolent activities.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true?—MRS. C.S.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true. —MRS. C.S.

There may be some misinterpretation or misunderstanding of what he was told. Diabetes in itself does not preclude removal of cataracts. Many people with diabetes are aided by such surgery.

However, if the diabetes has damaged the back of the eye, removal of the cataracts would do no good. Changes in the eye, other than cataracts, can occur from diabetes.

Removal of cataracts is beneficial only if the rest of the eye is in adequately good condition.

During the short business meeting, members decided to donate $10 to the local Christmas Cheer fund. Mrs. George Kidd was initiated as a new member.

Chairman of the CNIL campaign committee, Mrs. J. C. Coates, reported a recent donation from the Order of the Royal Purple has brought the fund up to $159.

Entertainment for the evening was supplied by a former IODE member, Mrs. J. F. T. Saywell, who now resides in Parkville. Mrs. Saywell showed slides on her trip to England and France.

CHEMAMINUS — The annual meeting of Mount Brenton Golf Club took place recently and president Vince Brookbank gave a report of progress made in the past year and expressed his appreciation to his fellow officers of the playing committee for their co-operation during his term of office.

The hall was most attractive with the table laid ready and the food was delicious. Sea food and turkey, hams and beef, with all the trimmings of salads, buns and coffee, etc.

The members of the organizations took charge of the supper and the younger generation gave valuable assistance.

FULFORD — In the bird news this week comes a white swan seen first in Ganges by Mrs. Warren Hastings and later reported at Fulford by John Roland and others. The swan was here for two days but has not been seen since.

Why hi, how's the weather up there? Group Captain R. S. Turnbull, RCAF Station Comox commander, greets Air Commodore A. Chester Hull, chief of staff, air defence command. Group Captain Turnbull has to look way up at the commodore, whose head comes through the cloud cover.

Chamber Head Lists Workers

PARKSVILLE — The appointment of committees for the coming year was the first duty of the newly installed president of Parkville Chamber of Commerce, Anton Krutz.

Committees appointed: Advertising and tourist publicity, Stan Groves, Douglas Ruddell, Dudley Wickett; finance, Howard Besson, Charles Cassford, Peter Mason; industry and commercial development, Bill Ewing, Anton Krutz, John Robertson; roads and public transportation, Ron Carson, Verne Huntley, Bill Noden; retail merchants, Ben Burns, Patrick Flynn, Glen Naylor; tourist bureau (operation) Sam Gough, (building) Herman Vanderbyl, (grounds) Hereward Aikie.

The appointments followed the annual installation of chamber officers, with Miss PNE, Lene Graaten as guest of honor. About 145 members and guests, believed to be the biggest attendance on record, were welcomed by retiring president Ron Thwaites who outlined a very progressive year for the Chamber.

He paid tribute to Lene Graaten who capture of the PNE crown was the highlight of the year, and gave a special welcome to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kris Graaten of Coombs, guests at the dinner.

Mr. Thwaites' report showed that membership has risen from 55 to over 90 this year; a record number of tourists visited, estimated at about 12,000; about $3,400 was raised in a blitz campaign and assistance was given for a boat launching ramp at French Creek.

E. G. Stroyan, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, was installing officer and in congratulating the new slate of officers said Parkville must be proud to have such a charming representative as Miss Graaten.

Museum Plan Stalled

CAMPBELL RIVER — The chamber here is demanding action on an important piece of unfinished business . . . the building of a museum and tourist building.

Rotary club has offered to raise $3,500 for the project and the club is anxious to get it underway, or to find another project.

Marwell Construction and Development Properties have expressed interest in discussing possible site.

But Peter Lakoduk told the chamber the project is one for the centennial committee and municipal council.

The centennial committee feels the district needs a library, which should be incorporated into the museum-tourist scheme.

Some chamber members felt the first project was planned long before the centennial committee was formed, and some action should be taken.

The executive of the chamber held a discussion recently on the inadequacies of the Island Highway at Campbell River.

The chamber's road committee will probably meet soon with RCMP to discuss the safety problem.

The committee will also study a possible by-pass highway. Harold McKelg told the chamber the RCMP should do more checks on drivers' speed.

Nanaimo High-Rise In Wrong Spot

NANAIMO — The Seacrest, Nanaimo's high-rise, stands in the wrong place, Eberhard Schulenburg, a local architect, told a gathering of Toastmasters here Wednesday.

Mr. Schulenburg was one of the club members asked to speak and he chose community planning as his theme.

He maintained vertical development was the answer to Nanaimo's expansion problems, but high-rises should be built on the lower slopes below Harewood, where they could still command a beautiful view, while not blocking the view of others.

The Seacrest is situated on Front Street, almost on the shoreline.

Official presentation of the charter to the new Toastmaster Club was made by Bob Baird, district governor of B.C. from Victoria.

He reminded those present, Toastmasters is a workshop, a do-it-yourself operation.

The other guest speaker at the dinner was Ab Robertson, Parkville, area governor of the northern half of Vancouver Island, including Powell River.

He predicted in another year's time Nanaimo would have a third club.

"Until a man can express himself properly he can't give from the heart," he added.

Club executive is Ralph McCall, president; Ray Hawes, secretary-treasurer; Norman Dmytruk and Jack Elgie, vice-presidents, and Vic Dixon, sergeant-at-arms.

Scout Group Has Meeting

LAKE COWICHAN — Some 60 people attended the Scout committee banquet held this week. Group committees were represented from Lake Cowichan, Youbou, Mesachie Lake and Honeymoon Bay.

Walter Nelson was elected district president, and his executive includes Charles Gordon, secretary, and Paul Bentsen, treasurer.

Commission Defended

PORT ALBERNI—Parks and recreation commission chairman, Ald. Teachers Win Increase

NANAIMO — Teacher salary negotiations have been concluded here, and the six per cent increase agreement reached is on a par with other school district settlements in the province.

In making the announcement, salary chairman trustee Joe Shook said negotiations had gone to the conclusion stage, but the agreement was reached amicably.

He believed both the board and teachers were pleased with the result.

As well as the six per cent salary increase, there were other minor administrative adjustments too, which will add $120,000 annually to the present $2,000 payroll in the Nanaimo school district.

Trustee Shook said other districts had gone as high as a 6.1 or 6.3 per cent increase.

He said the board was better off than going to arbitration because the proceedings themselves would be an added expense, and arbitration leads to friction between board and teachers.

New Buses Expected Next Week

NANAIMO — Nanaimo Transit operator Dave Swithen will return next week to end a 3,000-mile bus trip.

Mr. Swithen is driving from London, Ontario to Nanaimo, in one of the new buses made possible through the recently-passed bus purchase referendum.

Council has authorized a $33,000 debenture sale for the purchase of two new buses for the city system.

Nanaimo Transit will pay back the money over a 10-year period. The vehicles are both General Motors coaches, one a 31-passenger 1963 model, the other a 35-passenger 1965 model.

Mr. Hawksworth's letter charged the wire mesh screen put up during lacrosse season was a menace to players and a nuisance to spectators, but "our appeals to Mr. Russell to have this mesh removed have fallen on deaf ears."

COULD LEAVE

He also charged that Mr. Russell told him "if we did not like the way he was running the arena, we could take our hockey team and leave the rink because it was not built by the citizens to play hockey in."

Ald. Reynolds said at no time had there been any official letter or representation from the Luckies to appear before the commission as a whole.

"I have been in touch with Don Brooks, president of the hockey club, and he says the letter from Mr. Hawksworth was not written with the sanction of or by the wish of the executive," Mr. Reynolds said.

MEETING ARRANGED

"A meeting has been arranged with the executive of the Luckies, so that the matter can be straightened out, and Mr. Hawksworth can have the chance to prove or withdraw his accusations."

Plateau Road Job Will Cost $25,000

COURTENAY—Cost of extending Forbidden Plateau Road from the lodge to the ski lifts is $25,000.

This figure was contained in a letter from MLA Dan Campbell to Ski Development Society here.

Mr. Campbell said this amount could be included in the forthcoming budget for the highways department.

Mr. Campbell pledged his support for the extension of the Plateau Road and reconstruction of the lower portion.

Span Work Started

Highways department drills to prepare for additional span near George Pearson Bridge in the heart of Nanaimo. Work is complicated by rise and fall of tide. Highways department has warned residents this preparation does not necessarily mean a new span will be built immediately. —(Agnes Flett)

PTA Asked to Help

NANAIMO — Teachers and parents of school children will be organized into a solid force to get voters to the polls Dec. 11 to vote on the $3,300,000 school referendum.

School board secretary, treasurer Jim McPherrin, speaking at a Parent Teacher Council meeting, said district PTA members and teachers will be asked to drive voters to the polls.

Some will act as scrutineers, and will check off names on the voters lists during voting day.

As the day progresses, names not checked off on the list will be telephoned, asked to vote, and offered a ride.

Mr. McPherrin said "We can be sure the negative votes will turn out, we have to get a large vote to be sure those in favor also vote."

Rock City PTA delegate Bob Golob said a story in the Daily Colonist Sunday on the problem of fast traffic past Nanaimo schools, has spurred officials to action.

Mr. Golob said after the article Doug Allen, head of the local safety council, "got something moving."

Mr. Golob said traffic is "definitely not" slowing down when passing schools.

By BARRY JOHNSON

Canadian democracy is made workable this way:

In Victoria, a 33-year-old housewife and mother of four acted as a deputy returning officer in the recent federal election.

She saw that people who couldn't make it to the polling booths simply could not vote. So Judy Nyquist of 1849 Carnarvon checked the Elections Act and found there is no provision made for the ill and infirm to cast their ballots if they cannot make their way to a polling booth.

Change Law

And now she is out to change the law.

All it requires is a mobile polling booth for hospitals, nursing homes, rest homes and rehabilitation centres, where citizens can vote even if they are not in their own ridings. But it takes an act of Parliament. And that means moving politicians.

Right after the election she started circulating a petition. She already has about 4,000 names.

Petition Sheets

She picked up 15 names and handed out 10 petition sheets at a meeting Wednesday night of a church group of elderly people.

That's about how it goes. A few names here, promises of help there. Four hours a day, on the average, out of her busy housewife's schedule.

A Herbert Watson, whom she'd never met, phoned when he heard of her campaign and offered her his written version of a resolution. Mr. Watson's resolution is the one she's using.

Students Help

A group of students from the University of Victoria has also offered its help. Students will be knocking on doors at night, even though they are in the middle of Christmas exam-studying time.

"But four or five people can't go it alone," Mrs. Nyquist says.

"Where are we going to get the bodies? There's no difficulty getting the numbers on the petitions if we have enough hands."

"But we don't have enough."

Hockey Games

She's planning to start attending hockey games, for signatures, not recreation.

"No matter what it is or where it is, I want to get in," Mrs. Nyquist says.

"I really have no goal as to the number of signatures. Every one you can mention is unrealistic," she says. "We'd like to get every eligible voter in Victoria, but that's impossible."

"I thought of about 5,000, but that isn't enough."

Biggest Booster

Len Nyquist thought his wife was a crackpot when she started. Now he's her biggest booster and one of her hardest campaigners.

Neither does Premier Bennett, who has promised to sign her petition "as an individual."

Mrs. Nyquist was invited to a provincial cabinet meeting Thursday morning, and she signed up Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, Mines Minister Donald Brothers, Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and all the reporters waiting outside. Then she went through the Buildings and signed up 150 assorted civil servants. Mr. Bennett was not there.

She says: "I'll be at every possible gathering they'll let me into."

"I'll probably be kicked out of one or two but nevertheless, I'm going to try."

A country's laws are changed that way.

Candidate Raps 'Dictatorship'

Labor Plan

Nursing Home Target

NANAIMO — Labor's candidate in the Nanaimo civic election, Archie Simpson, 43, said Thursday he will push for a nursing home at the new Nanaimo Regional Hospital.

Mr. Simpson, 289 Macleary, father of five children, said plans for the nursing home are already on the drawing board, but he wants them hurried along.

CHRONICALLY ILL

The home would take care of the chronically ill and long term convalescents.

He also will press for reclamation of Nanaimo River flats to provide site for light industry.

SHOT IN ARM

Nanaimo is essentially an industrial town, he claimed, and the new wharf had already provided a shot in the arm.

"Catering to tourists is no help as they just pass through town, but industry helps everybody."

NOT ANSWER

One of Mr. Simpson's sponsors is Roy Young, first vice-president of the Nanaimo, Duncan and District Labor Council, who said "Attracting more tourists and selling trinkets on Commercial Street is not the answer to our problem."

West Coast Seats Vacant

UCLUELET — West coast residents will go to the polls in December to fill village council and school board seats.

Ucluelet will elect a chairman and two councillors for two-year terms and one school trustee for a two-year term.

Richard W. Poole is present chairman, it is not known as to whether he plans to run again.

Councillors are Lorne White and John Gerbrandt.

In Totino, voters will choose a chairman, three councillors and a school trustee.

Thomas Gibson is the present chairman, and councillors whose terms expire are W. Douglas Busswood, Joseph MacLeod, and George Pownall.

Ontario Man Sent to Jail

NANAIMO — A Niagara Falls man, Roger John Barthe, 19, was given a year definite and one year indeterminate in police court Thursday, after admitting theft over $50 in connection with theft of a transistor radio from Nanaimo News, Church Street.

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN

"This municipality is not governed by a democracy, but by a strict dictatorship," charged Robert Waddy, as he announced his intention to challenge North Cowichan Reeve Donald Morton in the December election.

"I have been asked on many occasions to run as councillor, but why run as councillor if Morton is the head making the decisions?" asked Mr. Waddy.

Mr. Waddy is secretary of Southend Ratepayers' Association.

SHIFT ENGINEER

He is assistant shift engineer at Crofton pulp mill, and he and Mrs. Waddy have a family of three, Roberta, 19, Allan, 18, and Donald, 9.

He said "I made my decision to enter the race this week because I feel somebody has to run against Morton."

PEOPLE FLOUTED

Giving an example of what he called dictatorship, Mr. Waddy said "democracy was not used properly at Maple Bay, where the people wished to voice their opinion but they were flouted."

He was referring to council's decision to rezone property on Genoa Bay Road so a trailer park and marina could be started.

BEST OPPORTUNITY

Reeve Morton said "I welcome any opposition, and election time is the best opportunity for taxpayers to express their opinions, at the polls."

Mr. Waddy said "there is so much indecision on council we need a strong man as reeve."

Accountant Found Shot Dead

DUNCAN — Twenty-seven-year-old Duncan accountant Donald J. Clark of Eagle Heights was found dead in his car on Koksilah Road by Jack Ayers of Duncan who was on his way to go fishing Thursday.

Police said Mr. Ayers noticed blood on the rear window of the car and notified the RCMP detachment at Duncan.

Police said Mr. Clark died of multiple head wounds from a 22 rifle.

No foul play is suspected. An inquiry will be held.

Port Alberni Alderman Calls It Quits

PORT ALBERNI — Of two aldermen whose terms expire this year, one has announced his intention to run again, and the other will not.

Mr. Parker has lived in the valley for four years, and is vice-president of the local chamber of commerce, as well as active in Toastmasters and the Rotary Club.

PAPERS PREPARED

Mr. Hoffman has been in the valley for six years. "My papers are prepared but not yet officially filed," he said.

"I am running strictly as an individual. I feel strongly that the people and the council have lost touch with one another. Many groups in the valley are not represented on council, and are not close enough to council."

CONTRACTOR FILES

In Alberni, contractor Al Derrell has filed his papers for the aldermanic vacancy. Mr. Derrell has lived in the valley for 27 years. He was born in Winnipeg, educated in Saskatchewan.

In Port, George Cole, Dave Smith, George McKnight and Walter Behn previously announced their intention to run, as has Ald. Garnet Reynolds.

In Alberni, incumbents Charlie Blair and John Williamson have filed papers.

Unnecessary, Says Union

Price Boosts Planned By Oil Firms

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three oil companies said within hours of accepting a government-proposed strike settlement that the wage increases to labor will mean higher prices for petroleum products.

Labor leaders, who expect the British Columbia settlement to form the basis for industry-wide contracts, said any increase would be unwarranted.

Imperial Oil Co., Home Oil Co., and Shell Canada Ltd. made statements saying the wage increase would show up in costs to the consumer.

But J. R. Duncan, national director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (OCAW), said Thursday:

"There is absolutely no need for a price increase."

Mr. Duncan said labor costs form an extremely small fraction of the price of a gallon of gasoline, perhaps two or three cents.

Oil company spokesmen would not say when they expected the price increase to take place, but union sources said it was unlikely until current disputes throughout the industry are settled.

Take Place Regionally

An oil industry source said any price increase would likely take place first regionally as wage settlements are made, then level off nationally.

There was no indication whether price increases were contemplated in other provinces.

Furnace oil delivered to homes in the Vancouver area now sells from 17.6 to 19.6 cents per gallon. Gasoline for cars ranges from as low as 38.9 in the Vancouver area to almost 50 cents a gallon in some remote northern districts.

Mr. Duncan said he expected the B.C. settlement formula would be the basis for an industry-wide settlement. His union is still on strike on the Prairies and at Clarkson, Ont.

The 500 oil workers on strike in B.C. were expected to be back at work when a new contract is signed, probably about the middle of next week.

In Saskatoon, both the OCAW and the Saskatchewan Petroleum Association (SPA) are in dispute.

British Housewives Fighting for Bread

LONDON (AP) — Housewives fought each other in a bread riot in a rush on stores for bread as a bakers' strike Thursday threatened 20,000,000 Britons with a weekend bread famine.

Stocks were snapped up in bakery shops and other stores within minutes—on wheels attempts were made to impose rationing of one loaf to a customer.

The strike of 10,000 bakers, seeking a 30-per-cent wage increase to £15 (345) a week, hit half of England, including London.

The Labor government months ago urged 3½ per cent as a pattern for pay increases in all industries in an attempt to prevent setting off a spiraling inflation. But an appeal to the bakers union to submit the dispute to arbitration was ignored.

Small independent bakeries still operated but their output could not come close to meeting the normal demand.

In a self-service store in Croydon, a suburb of London, a clerk said: "Some of the women behaved like animals. It disgusted me."

The union has announced its determination to stand pat. It is shutting down the big bakeries for 48 hours, bringing a halt to weekend supplies.

Colonist 500 Fund

Second Donation Given By VMD Employees

The season's first donors to the Colonist 500 Fund for the needy at Christmas have come through again. Employees of VMD followed up their handsome $400 gift with another $150 Thursday.

The 500 Fund at present is growing even faster than it did last year.

The fund to provide a cash Christmas bonus for the 500 most destitute families in Greater Victoria has already reached $1,670, or about $3.40 for each family.

When the fund was divided up last year, it provided $24 for each. And contributions are a little higher now than they were at this stage last year.

This is the ninth year of the fund.

The 500 families are chosen by the Christmas Bureau, an agency of the Community Chest. The cash is given with no strings attached and there are no administrative costs.

You can help by mailing or bringing your contribution to The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas.

Bennett and Accuser Meet Face to Face

By A. H. MURPHY

Bounding up the steps of the Victoria Law Courts building Thursday, Premier Bennett brushed past newsmen to appear at an examination for discovery in a slander suit brought against him by B.C.'s former chief purchasing agent.

Accompanied by counsel, George L. Murray of Vancouver, Mr. Bennett was conducted to the office of the Supreme Court registrar, Bernard Morahan, where he was sworn to tell the truth.

CIRCLED BUILDING

This preliminary to every examination for discovery followed the premier's arrival at the front door in his black limousine. The car arrived at the west door of the courthouse and then circled the building.

Premier Bennett got out of his car and, at a fast walk, raced up the steps to the law court building, past photographers and in the door, where he entered the office of the registrar on the first floor.

With a fixed half-smile on his face, he first said, "No comment," and "No time now" to reporters but later, on his walk down the hallway, did consent to a few words on the strike settlement.

BA in Montreal Reaches Pact

MONTREAL (CP)—The British American Oil Co. says in a statement the independent bargaining organization at its Montreal East refinery has accepted a new two-year contract with the company.

Earlier Thursday, the army commander had ousted President Joseph Kasavubu and his hand-picked premier in a bloodless coup. A friend of the west, Mobutu apparently believed Kasavubu had veered from a pro-Western policy.

Followers of ex-premier Mose Tshombe hailed the coup. There was speculation that Tshombe, who led the futile secession of Katanga province after independence from Belgium in 1960, would be called back to the government in some capacity.

Mobutu called a press conference to say that "since this morning I am the president."

He announced he had named Col. Leonard Mulamba, a career officer, to replace premier-designate Evariste Kimba.

It generally was believed Mobutu broke with Kasavubu after the president told the Afri-

'Mr. Peterson, Myself and Advisers'

Premier Bennett took full credit Thursday for his government in the settlement of the oil workers' strike.

Neither management nor labor had any part in fashioning the settlement formula for the 10-week dispute which, in its final phase, threatened to paralyze the economic life of the province.

Asked who composed the peace pact, Mr. Bennet said: "It was a combination of Mr. Peterson (provincial labor minister) and myself, along with our advisers and, of course, the assistance of the provincial department of labor staff."

It was, then, purely a government effort, a reporter suggested.

"It was—no management and no labor," Mr. Bennett said.

WILSON MAPS PEACE DRIVE

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson announced Thursday night a dual British drive in Washington and Moscow to get Viet Nam peace talks started.

Wilson told the House of Commons that his foreign secretary, Michael Stewart, will fly to Moscow Monday in an effort to persuade the Soviet Union to join Britain in reviving the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina as a forum for peace talks.

Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of that conference and would be jointly charged with reconvening it.

The prime minister also said he will explore every possibility for a Viet Nam settlement with President Johnson in the United States Dec. 17.

HOPEFUL STATEMENTS

But he made clear in replying to hostile questions from left-wing Labor MPs that in his view it is the North Vietnamese, not the Americans, who are blocking peace efforts.

British authorities said Wilson and Stewart are intrigued by a number of hopeful statements coming from minor Communist countries on the possibility of getting Viet Nam peace talks started.

North Viet Nam Denies 'Feelers'

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam denied in effect Thursday that it has proposed negotiations to end the Vietnamese war.

The aim appeared to be to counteract random diplomatic reports over the last few months that the North Vietnamese were willing to talk. President Johnson expressed U.S. willingness last April to enter unconditional discussion. Nothing firm has developed.

Searcher Lost As Man Found

PORT HARDY (CP) —

A search party lost one and gained one Thursday.

It found prospector Bud Ditto of Cranbrook and Vancouver who was lost in the Nahawitti Lake area about 16 miles west of Port Hardy.

But it lost Pat Taylor, 21, of Alert Bay, who wandered away from a search group to which he was assigned.

Thirty men will look for Taylor today. But an RCMP spokesman said he had a food supply and would probably walk out alone.

New Quebec Readers Arouse Storm

Father, Mother Replace Jesus and God

QUEBEC (CP) — Charges of "agnostic control" and counter-accusations of "witchhunting" are all part of a Quebec province squabble touched off by the removal of religious references from first- and second-grade French Roman Catholic textbooks.

The revised editions of two primary school readers which appeared this year have had all verbal or pictorial references to religion removed and replaced by lay equivalents.

Speaking last week at the opening of the assizes in Quebec City, Mr. Dorion said that in order to please this group "we have totally deformed the first- and second-year readers in the province's schools."

Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, counter attacked with the accusation that Mr. Justice Dorion was "witch-hunting."

The changes in the readers, "far from being the work of agnostics" are the modifications

approved by the catechism committee "created by the Roman Catholic bishops themselves."

Examination of the old and revised texts shows that the greatest change is in the first-year reader. All illustrations of a religious nature have been replaced by non-religious scenes.

On the first page of the revised edition, a picture of the Christ child, John the Baptist child to give her one as a New Year's gift."

By that of a child playing with blocks while an adult looks on.

Throughout the text the words Jesus, God, Mary and saints have disappeared and been replaced by father, mother, uncle, aunt and others.

The second lesson of the former edition contained this sentence: "Aline likes cats and she would have wanted the Christ child to give her one as a New Year's gift."

In the revised edition this was replaced by: "Aline likes cats and she would have liked to receive one as a New Year's gift."

In the fourth lesson of the old edition a disobedient child cries: "I am well punished for my disobedience! My God, cure me, I will no longer be talkative, I promise you." In the new edition this becomes: "I am punished for my disobedience! I will no longer be talkative."

Nasser Open In Admiration Of Americans!

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser expressed admiration Wednesday for the development and drive of the American people. He said U.A.R. relations with the United States had shown a "great improvement" since the crisis at the beginning of the year.

In a 30-minute speech opening the National Assembly, Nasser attributed the crisis to differences over Israel but added "the two sides have exerted important efforts to ease the tension."

Relations between the two countries should be based on "mutual understanding and mutual esteem," he said.

Nasser made no mention of American aid but last night U.S. Ambassador Lucius Battle called on the president at the ambassador's request. There was speculation among political circles Battle informed Nasser of United States agreement to a new aid program.

A year ago on Thanksgiving Day, an Egyptian mob burned down the John F. Kennedy Library on the grounds of the U.S. Embassy, an event which helped disrupt U.A.R.-American relations.

FIRST REFERENCE
In what observers said was his first reference to the Sino-Soviet dispute, Nasser commented: "Liberation movements supported by Russia and China have suffered as a result of this dispute."

He regretted the Sino-Soviet quarrel and hoped it had not reached the point of no return. Commenting on the Rhodesian situation, Nasser said: "Imperialism has been pretending its disapproval while it possesses the opportunity and means to change the situation."

HOPES RAISED

He made no reference to Britain in talking about Rhodesia, but said later there had been no improvement in U.A.R.-British relations despite the hopes raised when the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson took power.

Nasser said Franco-Egyptian friendship was strengthening and he praised President Charles de Gaulle as "one of the leading proponents of national dignity and national freedom."

Nasser reserved his warmest comments for Russia, noting relations between the two nations were becoming stronger and there was "a deep understanding" with the Soviet leaders as a result of his visit to Moscow in September.

Your Good Health
How to Live a Long Life: Care for Chronic Condition

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD
Dear Dr. Molner: When I retired in 1961 my problem was diagnosed as coronary heart disease. The severe chest pains have long since disappeared, and so has shortness of breath unless I forego rest periods after meals.

However, a bluish tint prevails around my lips. It is more pronounced when I am tired.

What is your guess as to my longevity in view of this, as well as that I'm always coupled in some benevolent enterprise? It seems I'm busier now at 70 working for free than I was when earning a substantial salary.—S.H.P.

I broke my crystal ball long ago and refuse to predict longevity. Disgustingly healthy people get run over by cars or develop some unexpected disease, and die. And people with dangerous conditions succeed in taking care of themselves very effectively and outlive others who seemingly have nothing to worry about.

There's more truth than nonsense in the adage about the way to live a long life: Have some chronic condition that you have to take care of.

This is true of several kinds of heart disease. A cranky heart will still serve us for a long time if given half a chance.

Indonesians Told: 'We Don't Need Red Party'

JAKARTA (UPI)—Minister of Information Maj.-Gen. Achmad said Wednesday that existence of the Indonesia Communist Party was not necessary for the attainment of the aims of national revolution.

Comparing the revolutions of America and France, Achmad said the Indonesian revolution "is much bigger as its aim is three-fold—to fight against imperialism, to build an independent country, and to struggle for social justice and prosperity for the people."

WORKERS, STUDENTS
The general spoke to leaders of workers and student organizations at Makassar, Radio Jakarta said.

Achmad said the Sept. 30th Movement was only "like a part of a wave in a big ocean." But Indonesia's revolution was a major revolution and there was still much more to fight for, he said.

He stressed that Nasakom (nationalism, religion and Communism) was still the form of Indonesia's revolution but to "achieve the revolution, there was no need for the presence of the PKI."

Meanwhile the Indonesian military appeared to have begun piecemeal abolishment of the Communist Party.

Roeslan Abdulgani, public relations minister, in a statement published Wednesday said dissolution of the Indonesia Communist Party is within the authority of regional military commanders.

In line with his statement, the commanders in West Java and the faraway Moluccan Archipelago took the initiative last week and declared the PKI illegal in their respective areas after mass ceremonies in which local PKI chapters penitently declared their organizations disbanded.

I can't guess how long you will live. I couldn't guess even if you didn't have a heart that needs to be bled along. But barring the unexpected you ought to have some years of continuing your benevolent activities.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true? —MRS. C.S.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a friend who has gone blind from cataracts. He has been to specialists but they tell him there is no help for him because he has diabetes. Is this true? —MRS. C.S.

There may be some misunderstanding or misunderstanding of what he was told. Diabetes in itself does not preclude removal of cataracts. Many people with diabetes are aided by such surgery.

However, if the diabetes has damaged the back of the eye, removal of the cataracts would do no good. Changes in the eye, other than cataracts, can occur from diabetes.

Removal of cataracts is beneficial only if the rest of the eye is in adequately good condition.

Bennett Meets Jones

Mr. Jones contends that the premier made statements at a Victoria Social Credit meeting on March 5 which slandered him.

Mr. Jones was removed subsequently from the office of provincial purchasing commission chairman.

In an examination for discovery, each of the contending parties has the opportunity to question the other. The informal inquiry may be conducted before the registrar but more often is not.

The statements made at the inquiry are taken down and transcripts made available to each counsel.

It is possible that the future disposition of the suit could hinge on the examination. Tentative date for the trial is Dec. 30 in Vancouver Law Courts.
